COCOA HIGH SCHOOL

ROCKLEDGE, FLORIDA

VOLUME IV

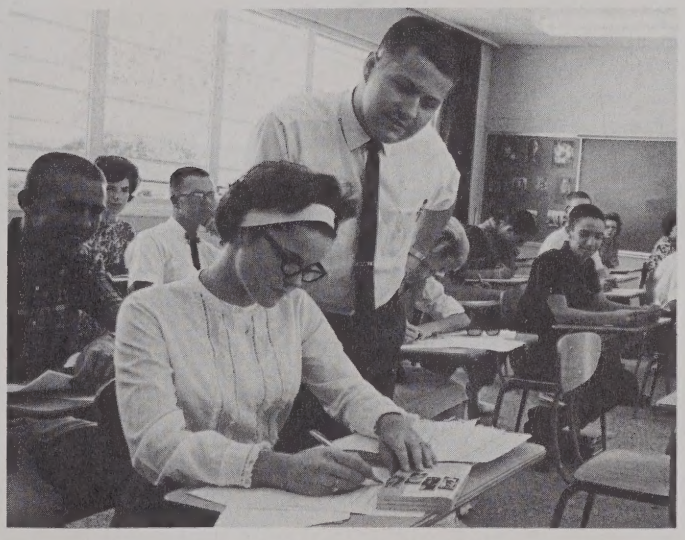
The faces of Cocoa High are many and reflect varied attitudes.

COCOA HIGH SCHOOL

Cocoa High is traveling down the road of destiny, and upon it she meets those who are her people. She takes them under her wing and instructs them with the teachings of experience in the techniques of living. She stamps upon them the quill and scroll of scholarship, the winged foot of athletic endeavor, the torch of friendship, and the lyre of harmonic activities. New generations continue to meet her on the road; but invariably she travels with them only a short while, for they leave her protection in search of better things, and others take their place. However, her vision does not shift from the horizon of progress, which recedes before her onward march.

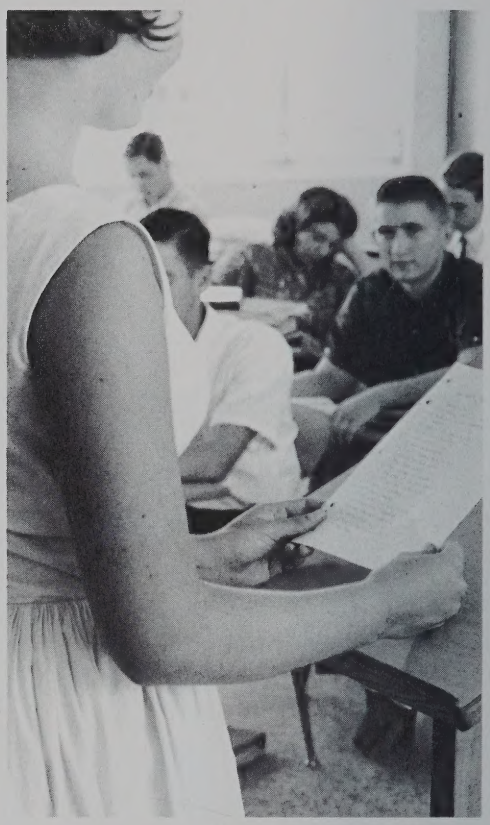
No room for politeness in a football game.

Aha! I've caught a foul deed in the making.



Make up your mind—it's one or the other. Angels and devils greet Homecoming.

"Friends, Romans, Countrymen . . ."



Open wide, everyone. All together now . . .

Ready? "Oh, the bells, bells, bells . . ."

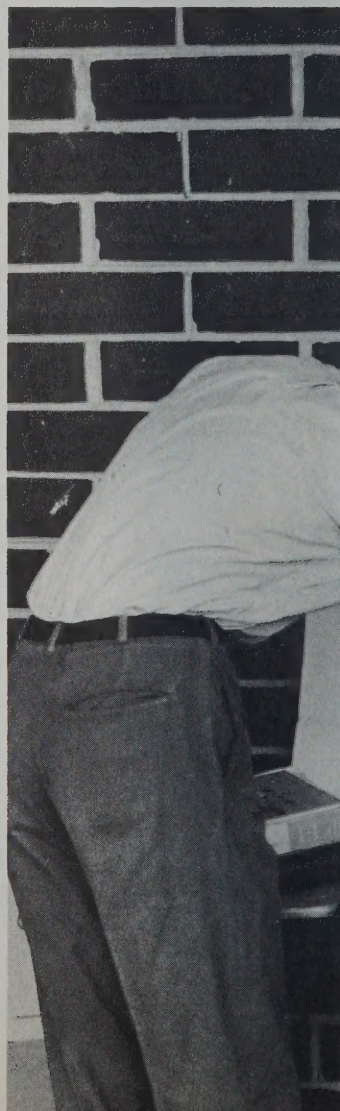
Films provide an interesting supplement to class work. "Wow, get a load of Brigitte!"

The quill and scroll are inscribed upon the concept of scholarship. It is this scholarship upon which Cocoa High places so much value, and she holds it up before her people as an endeavor of highest magnitude. She exerts her greatest effort in striving to motivate them to explore their educational opportunities. The winds of change blow over her, yet her high purpose stands unbent by them. She, with her quill and scroll of scholarship, continues to lift her offering to the cause of learning.

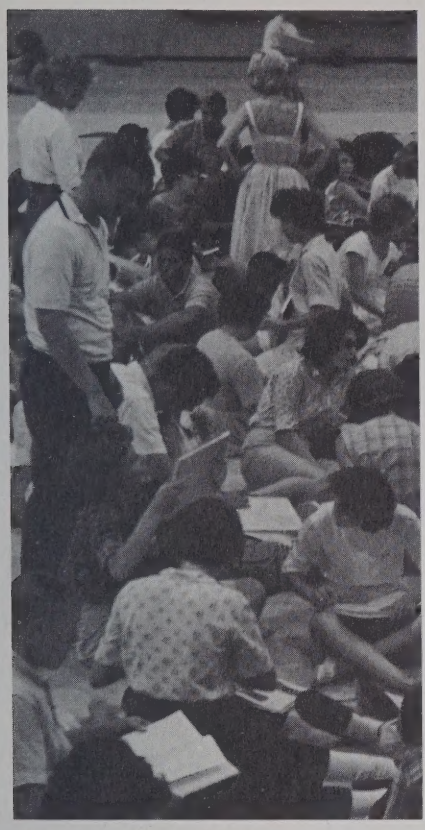
Homecoming was a gala affair . . . especially for Nancy Oswald, the 1963 queen.

The morning was hectic but full of anticipation before the homecoming dance.

Spectators review the parade of Tiger spirit.



After the experiences are the memories.



Sophomores speak strongly on election day.

The lyre harmonizes the complex relationships among the people of Cocoa High. It produces rich strains of experience with the notes of the various clubs and activities. These notes are used to form subthemes and counter-themes to supplement the dominant theme of learning. A student's success in high school is often determined by the melody he creates from the available notes. The sweet music of the lyre does not drift through the halls of Cocoa High unheard, for its sounds are part of her.

Students rally to the cause of victory.

The Key Club promotes school spirit.

Splashing their way to victory are Coach Miller's indomitable Tiger Sharks.

The winged foot, as the symbol of athletics, bears the manifestation of the body. There is beauty in the complex coordinated movements which integrate themselves into a jump, a stroke, or a throw. Each part of the body has a role to play, and the sum of these roles illustrates the spirit of teamwork. In athletics one finds also the challenge of competition—a force which moves the true athlete to the last effort. After the best has been given, it is the spirit of the true athlete which can accept the terrible disappointment of defeat without bitterness, if need be. But deep inside he must know that in giving his best is the victory.

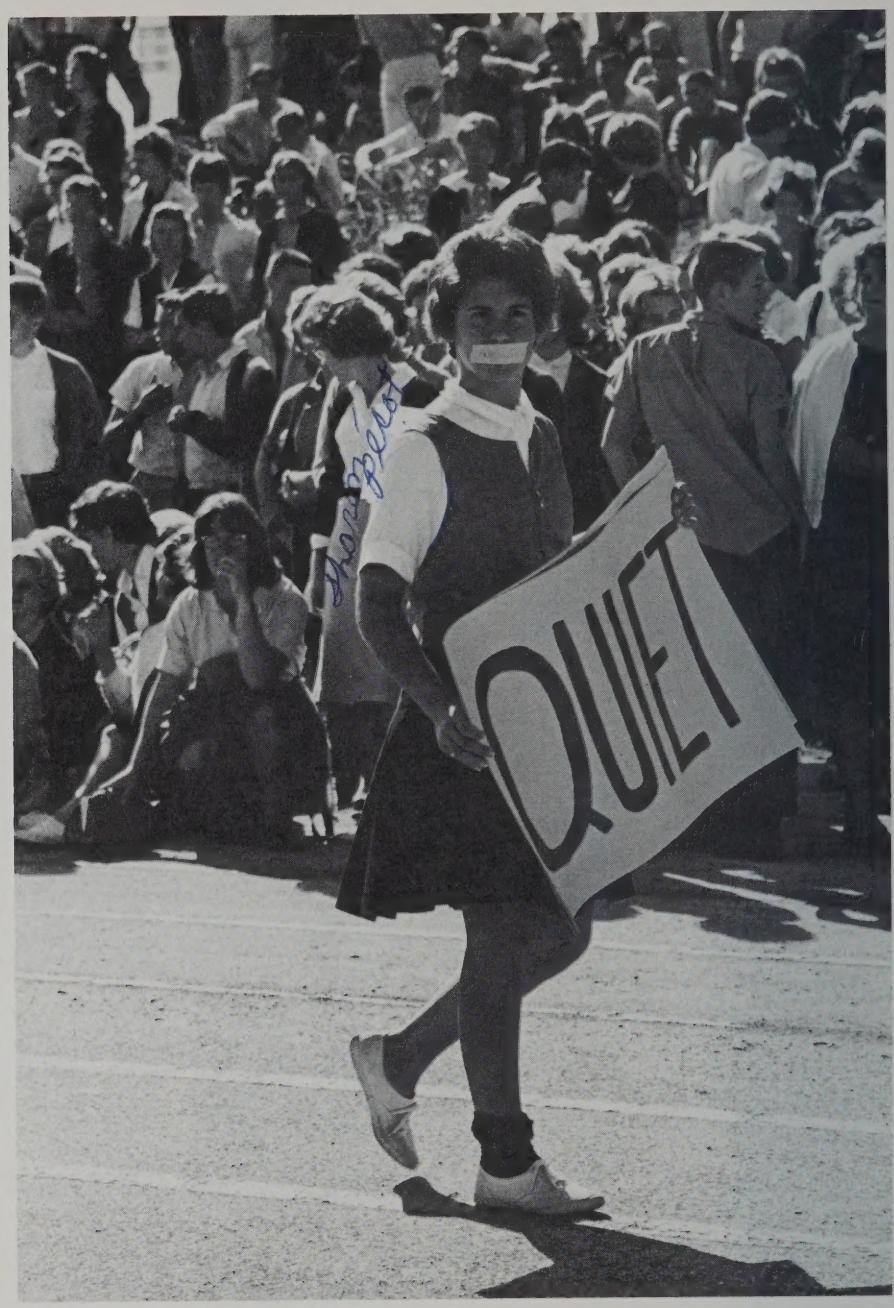
Speed and stamina are requisites for success in basketball, our fastest game.

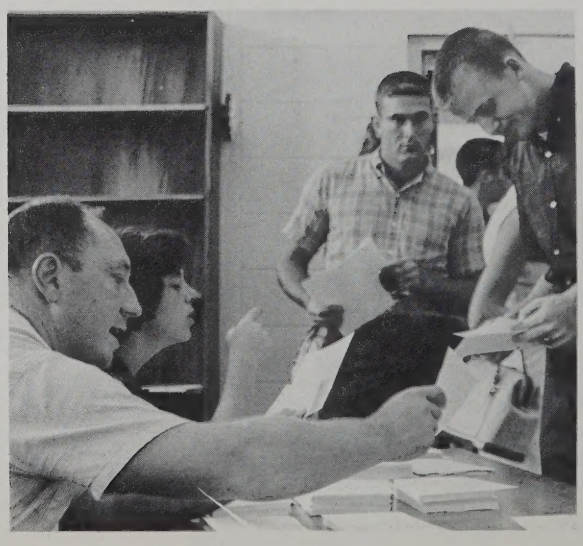
Their suits were washed in a machine using Brand X . . .

"Hey, look, Mom! No gravity!"

Football includes contacts in more ways than one.

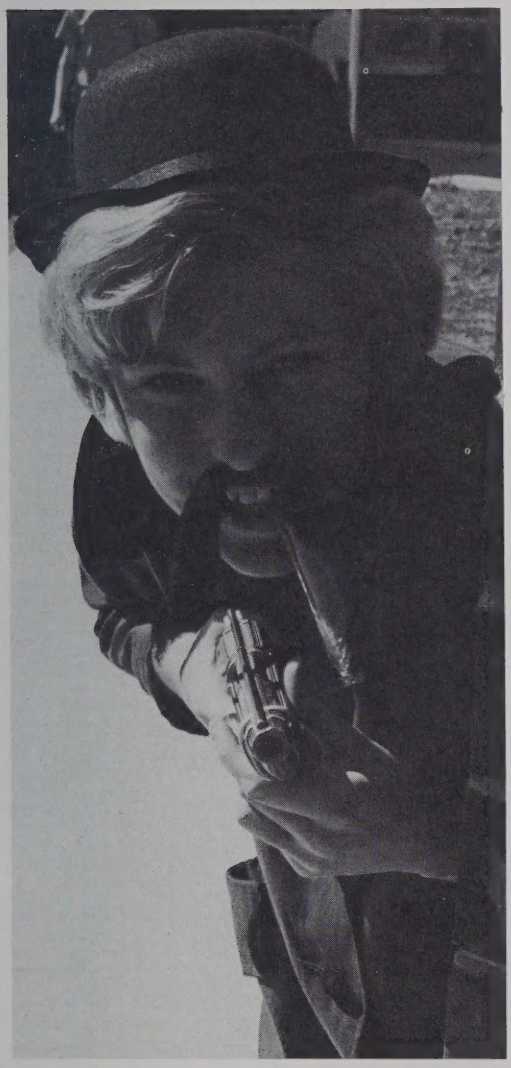
Mum's the word until the signal is given at the big pep rally ending Spirit Week.





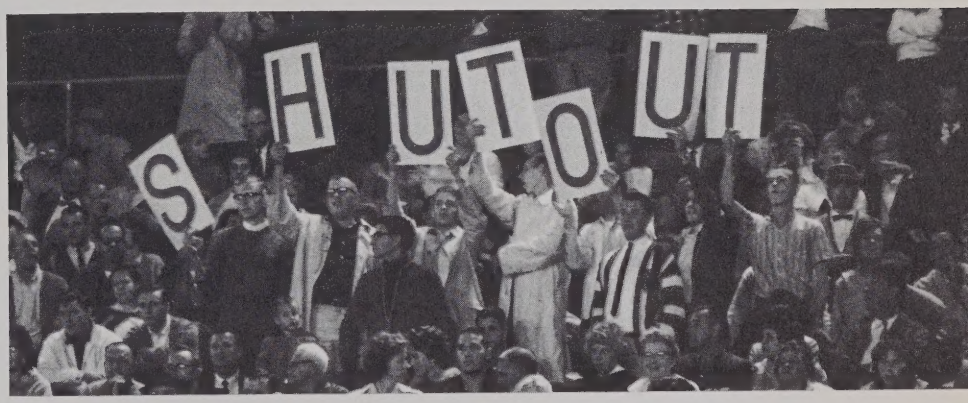
Registration day — so confusing!

"Stick 'em up!" says fierce gunman during Spirit Week.



The torch is a very fitting symbol of personalities. No fire could warm the insides as does the confidence and interest of a friend or shed more light than that of a beaming countenance and a cheerful word. Perhaps the strongest bonds that bind one to high school are the friendships which have been kindled there. It is an unhappy existence which is not brightened by the light of mutual understanding. Cocoa High illuminates her halls with the beacon of friendship.

Eager fans of all ages crowd the bleachers to cheer the Cocoa Tigers on to victory.

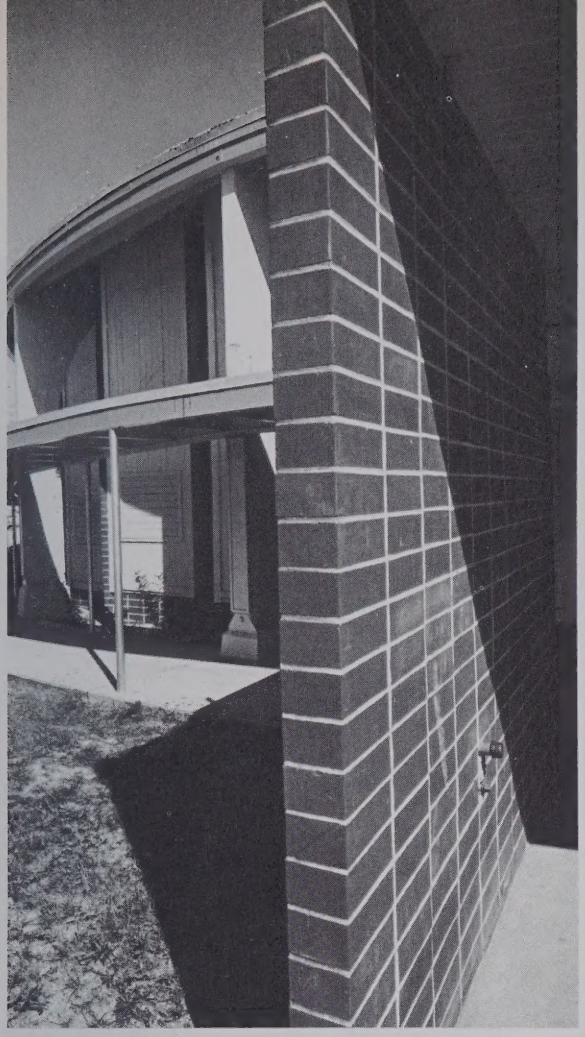


Step right up, folks. The bargain of the year—genuine photographs guaranteed to please.

Here are the halls where high school histories are born—the potter's wheel where characters are molded.

Enter into the home of the Tigers. They're mighty proud of it.

The office is one of the newer additions.



The auditorium has unlimited duties.

Perhaps the building itself is one of the most insignificant parts of a school. It is the people who exist under its roof, who enter into its rooms and who tread its corridors that make it the symbol of so much in our memories. The air around it is permeated with the ambitions of youth — the ambition to know, to do, to live, and to succeed. It is here through our friendships, through our desire to know, and through our capacity to live that we build up our potential to become individuals of great worth. Having achieved this within the scope of our existence at Cocoa High, we can seek nothing of more value from our school nor can more be offered.

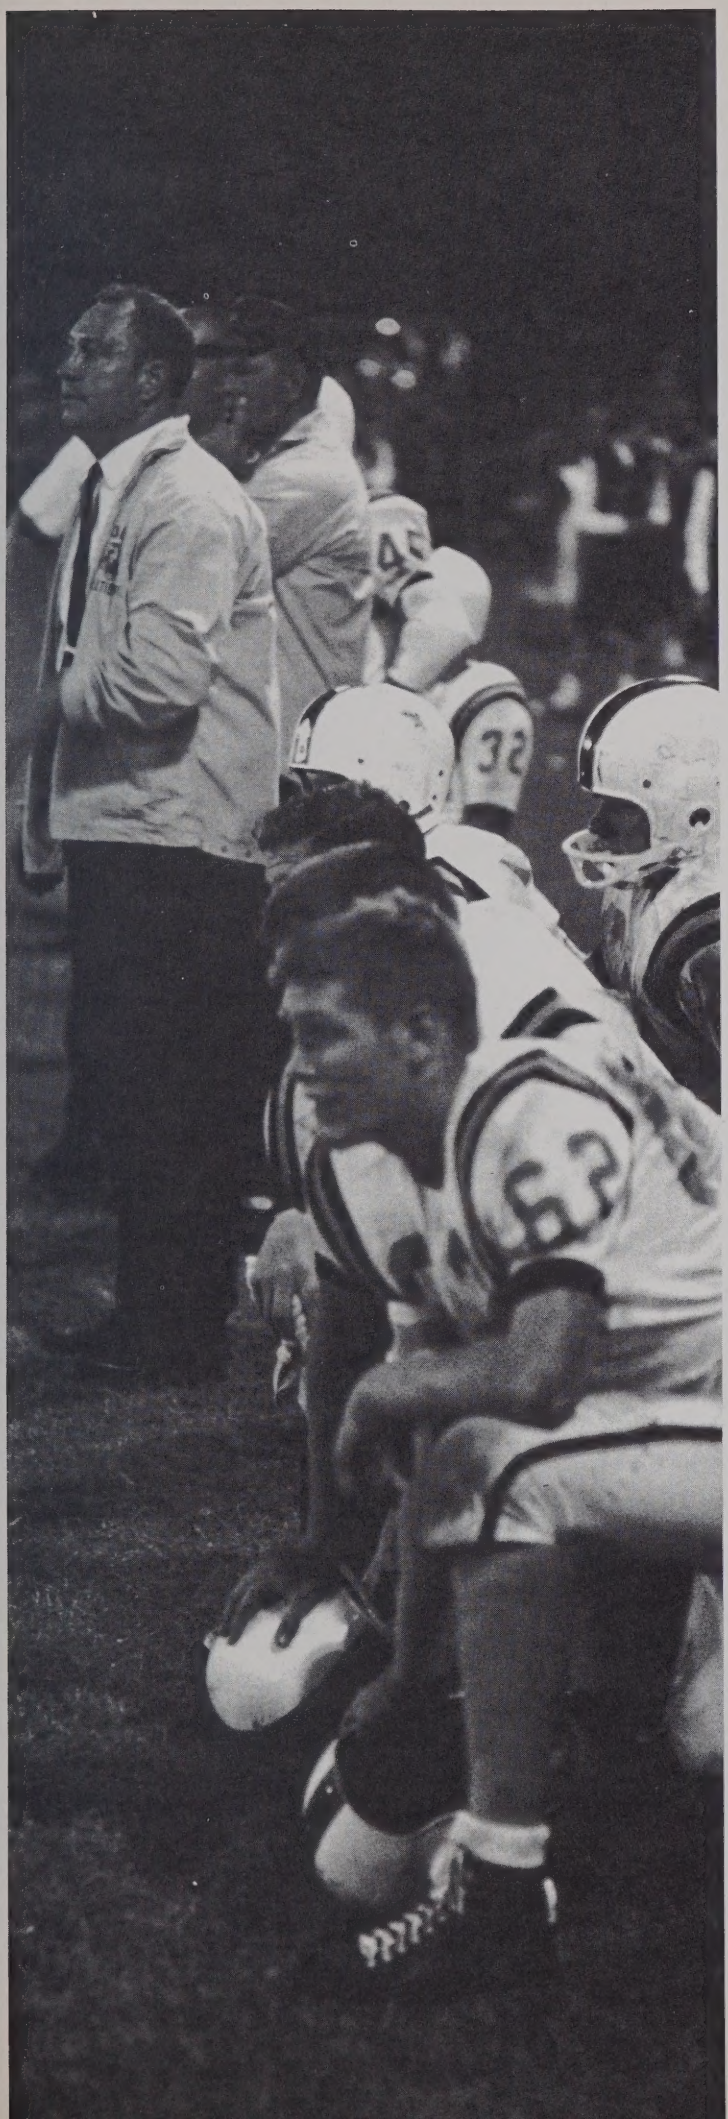
Off to the mines and another day of forced labor.

One has only to choose the most run-down jalopy and he can be sure it belongs to a teacher.

Spirit week is climaxed by a mighty Tiger shout after almost two hours of silence.

Students contemplate suicide as a cure for homework.

Tiger fans loosen game tension.



They look like hungry Tigers.

The array of edibles in the cafeteria tempts even the most staunch dieter.

Students at Cocoa High are on the launch pad, ready to ignite their ambitions, which will carry them out into the unknown that is the future. They are reluctant to escape the gravitational pull of the past, but the velocity of their desire to explore new realms will carry them out beyond.

MR. STEVENS

ADMINISTRATION

Seldom does one find a school with growing pains so chronic as those at Cocoa High School. It has grown from 1400 students in 1962 to 1800 in 1963 to 2300 in 1964. However, in compensation, seldom does one find an administration so capable of handling the problems of such a situation. Cocoa High's place as one of the top schools in Florida speaks with acclamation of the abilities of its administration.

It is difficult to imagine that many principals could be as admired and respected by both students and faculty as Clyde Stevens. He has built himself into the structure of Cocoa High, and it is what it is because he has become a part of it. When we speak with pride of Cocoa High, we are speaking also of Mr. Stevens, for the two are inseparable.

Assisting Mr. Stevens in the treatment of Cocoa High's growing pains are our assistant principals, Robert Roth and Robert Anderson. By participating wholeheartedly in the life of Cocoa High and listening to its heartbeat, they have come to understand its needs and provide accordingly in cooperation with Mr. Stevens.

If there is one man at school whom everyone knows, it is Mr. Walden, our dean. He has the rather dubious honor of keeping Cocoa High School students on the straight and narrow. There are many around school who can testify to his success in this endeavor. We students appreciate Mr. Walden much more than our actions often indicate.

This is the workshop where Mr. Stevens forges the policies of Cocoa High School.

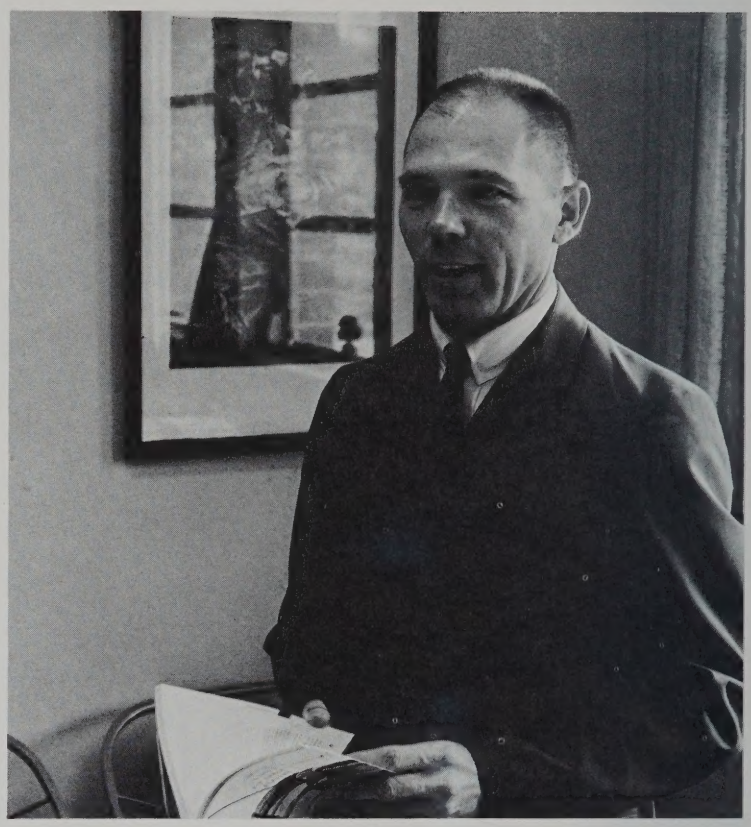
Mr. Anderson mans an arsenal of ink pens and paper work.



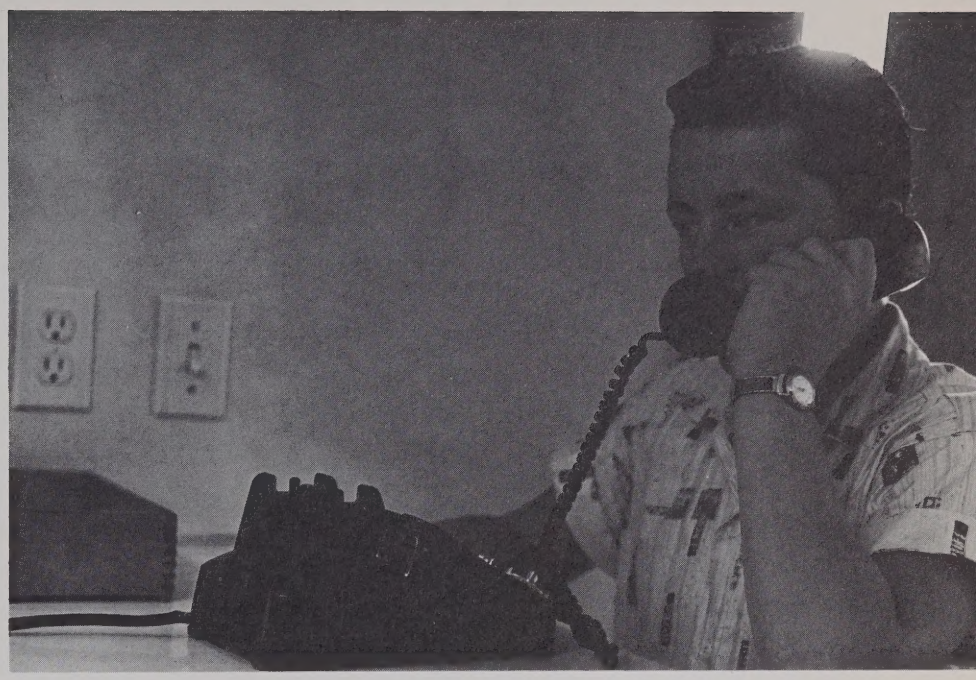
Mr. Roth is always willing to help no matter what the problem.

Mr. Walden is fast on the draw as another culprit bites the dust.

Students find it easy to sidetrack help at Cocoa High.

OFFICE

Within the modern walls of Cocoa High's inner sanctum, there are supports of school life which often are overlooked in examining the structure. They are the beams which are hidden in the quantity of red tape and paperwork that are so much a part of the educational structure. These are the secretaries who, with their corp of assistants, perform the daily rites and ceremonies of their office. This, in itself, is a task of enormous proportions. It is certainly a sight when one ever sees them in suspended animation. But whether they are manning a typewriter, collecting money, or inscribing upon the records, they maintain a cheerful smile for every student. Without the efforts of our secretaries, the walls of Cocoa High would crumble.



The office telephone is usually voted "most popular" at CHS.

What would the Guidance Department do without the assistants? Friendly faces mean a lot to bewildered new students.

Guidance Adjusts the

Mr. Yoakley shows obvious interest in the present welfare and future plans of our students.

GUIDANCE

The people of Cocoa High are setting the sails of their ambitions and hopes—ready to embark into the realm of the future—anxious to test the foundations of their past. And yet all is not ready for the voyage—the compass remains to be adjusted with a different North Pole for every vessel, according to its components and its capacity.

In no other area of her existence is the absorbing interest of Cocoa High for her people reflected more strongly than in the Guidance Department, for it is here that students often come in search of direction. To them it matters not in what turbulent waters our ships may sail—whether they be those of future plans, personal problems, or class scheduling. Armed with knowledge and understanding, the Guidance Department is always ready and willing to take the helm.

Mrs. Johnson, Guidance office secretary, has a smile which invites confidence.

Compasses Which Direct Our Ambitions and Hope.

The Guidance office is the refuge of many a confused soul.

English Is the Key

Lectures are a daily part of the life of an English class.

ENGLISH

English is our native tongue; and as such, it is our prime medium of communication. Those who possess the capacity to manipulate its words into original designs of thought possess the ability to influence profoundly those with whom they come in contact. By being able to express themselves with clarity, they manifest to the world their own perception. With these things in mind, our English Department instructs the student in the mechanics of self-expression, both oral and written. Then upon this strong foundation the student is taught to base his creativity.

Inasmuch as our existence revolves around a world of ideas, so it becomes a richer experience according to our ability to understand and assimilate new concepts. Thus through discriminating reading and listening, the student acquires material with which to build his mind, and indeed, his being. When viewed in this light, the value of language is immeasurable.

Audio-visual aids recreate for art students masterpieces of th e past, stimulating them to greater creativity.

Art is a means of deep inner satisfaction, a method of communication.

FINE ARTS

There is a truly beautiful element in the reaching forth of artistic fingers and expressive music in a surpassing effort to communicate the inner depths of feeling. The communication between two beings carries not the beings themselves into complete understanding of one another, but instead bears only pieces of expression which are clues to something deeper within each—something open only to perceptive interpretation. The Fine Arts Department seeks to motivate students to release such communication. It realizes that there are things words cannot express.

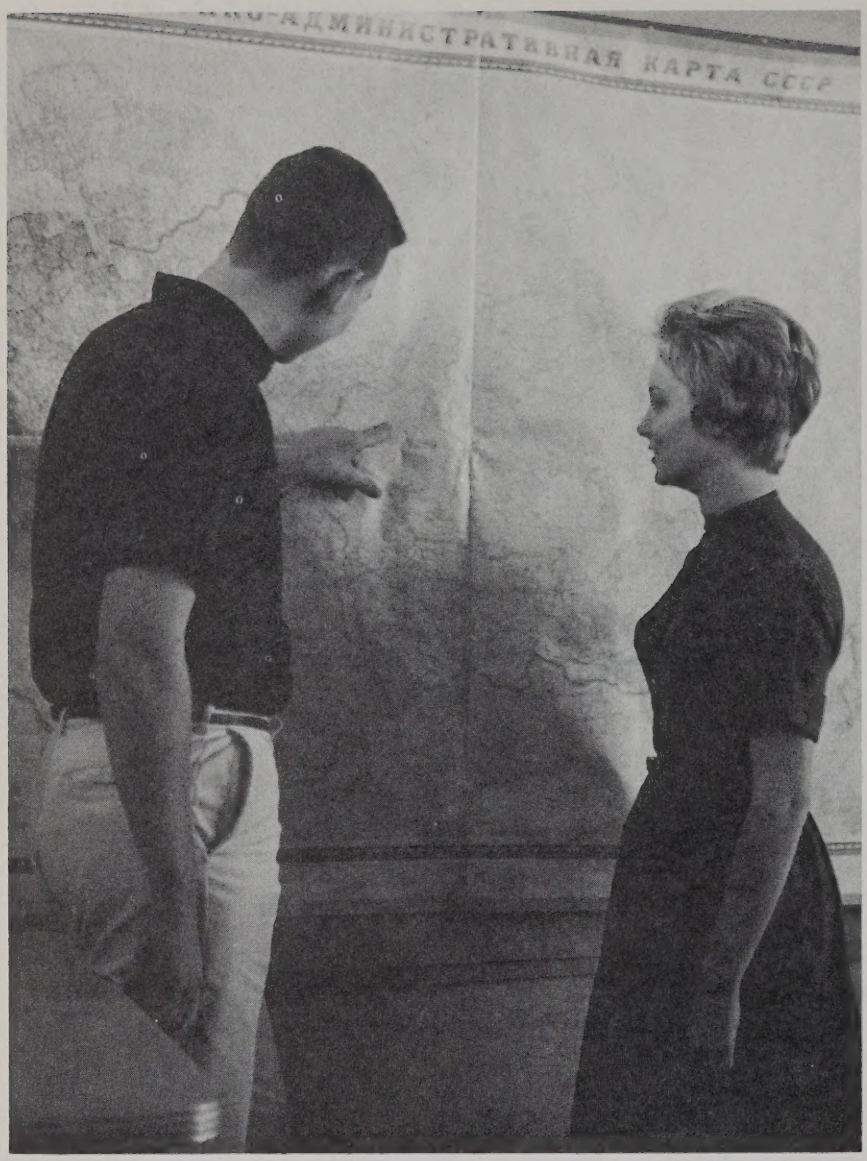
The Music Department manifests itself vocally in various forms, including the a cappella choir, the mixed chorus, and the boys' and girls' choruses. The annual highlight is a stage production, this year's being LI'L ABNER. Instrumentally the Music Department displays the CHS Marching Band (the largest in Central Florida), the Concert Band, the Tiger Band, and the Stage Band.

The Art Department awakens in the potential artist a sense of form and a feeling for visual expression. Once alerted to these things, the student's imagination and creativity take the reins.

LANGUAGES

Perhaps one of the greatest barriers to mutual understanding among men is that of language. While we can see it as a means of communication, we see also in its diversity of form the seeds of discord. To those who breach the language barrier, there is beyond a promise of great wealth in human experience. There are few high schools in the country where the challenge in this area of endeavor is proclaimed more loudly than at Cocoa High. Students are offered four years of Spanish, French, and Latin; two years of Russian; and, for the first time, two years of German.

When we view a different people in terms of our native language, the image we receive is somewhat blurred and distorted. Through the corrective lenses of their own language, we begin to bring into focus their true form. Every language carries within itself a peculiar manner of thinking characteristic of people who speak that language—a manner of thinking which must be understood in order to appreciate its people in depth. Through its language department, Cocoa High recognizes the weakness of a structure which attempts to bridge the gulf of misunderstanding between peoples without the support of language.



A map written in Russian offers a challenge to Russian students to try their skill at pronunciation.

An intriguing display stirs in students a yearning for faraway places. For Spanish-speaking students there are many exciting places.

MATHEMATICS

Mathematics is the language which expresses the phenomena of our universe. Within its cryptic equations are locked secrets of vast and unimaginable significance. The Mathematics Department of Cocoa High School is aware of this in its efforts to instill in the students a lasting interest in mathematics.

Those whose minds think in terms of the concepts of this language possess the keys with which to open the doors of progress. By means of its highly diversified program in mathematics, Cocoa High is able to give to its students the material with which to forge these keys. In addition to the regular General Math, Algebra, Geometry, and Trigonometry courses offered by most high schools, Cocoa High's curriculum includes College Algebra, Analytic Geometry, and Calculus. Cocoa High's Mathematics Department strives to give credentials to a growing number of students who seek mathematical citizenship.

SCIENCE

Science is the systemized knowledge of nature and the physical universe; but more than this it is the search for the unknown. It is a search which beckons and challenges the explorer who is willing to venture into this realm with lights of observation and experimentation. Science illuminates the darkness of ignorance revealing truth in its beam. Recognizing the tremendous value of the trial and error method of experimentation, the Science Department at Cocoa High School is placing major emphasis on this aspect of science in its biology, chemistry, and physics classes.

The study of science entails one major prerequisite—a profound and insatiable curiosity that leads to the infinity of space and to the wonders of the infinitesimal in its unrelenting search for truth. However, there is an element of faith here, too,—faith that new worlds can be conquered.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Man, as a social creature, lives in a complex society dominated by inter-relationships. As he moves to and fro on the paths within the limits of his social existence, he comes to realize that he is a product of the forces of the past as well as those of the present. Within the Social Studies Department, Cocoa High imparts to her students a sense of direction in pointing out to them where they have been (American History and World History) and where they stand at the present (Senior Social Studies). But it is for the students to decide where they will eventually go, for they carry the burden of the future upon their shoulders. It is the aim of the Social Studies Department to prepare them for such a time when it shall be delivered into their hands. Thus, we see that social studies at Cocoa High School encompasses all of time.

It is often easy to forget, in speaking of generalities that the body of human society is composed of basic component parts which are its individuals. In the study of Psychology Cocoa High promotes a more basic understanding of man as he exists individually in his society at an infinitesimal moment on the compass of time.

BUSINESS

A complex society is necessarily one in which there is a high degree of specialization. But even in a complex society, not everyone can be a purely specialized organ; there must be some type of coordination to carry on the day-to-day commercial affairs. This coordination comes in the form of business, which regulates the economic element that is such a moving force in every society. Cocoa High School sees this significance and provides accordingly.

In the various courses offered by the Business Department the students reach out for a broader understanding of the principles which govern the business world. The curriculum, which includes Typing I and II, Shorthand I and II, Bookkeeping I and II, Business English, Business Mathematics, Business Law, Secretarial Office Practice, and Clerical Office Practice, provides general business and vocational information as well as practical training in this important area of endeavor.

EDUCATION

Our lives, our minds, are housed within the fragile structure of our bodies. We live as long as the mechanism through which we exist continues to function. The scope of the physical education program, recognized as one of the best and most diversified programs in the state of Florida, is indicative of the understanding and emphatic support given it by Cocoa High.

The nucleus of the boys' physical education program consists of weights, isometrics, wrestling, rope climbing, calisthenics, horizontal bar, tumbling, and peg boards. Related activities which are also included are basketball, track, gymnastics, volleyball, softball, soccer, and football.

The girls' program consists of golf, archery, swimming, and tennis in addition to basketball, track, volleyball, softball, and soccer.

PRACTICAL ARTS

There are certain basic duties which all must perform from time to time to maintain an orderly life. These are not the works of genius which proclaim themselves to the world, but, rather, are the simple things that one takes a personal pride in doing well from day to day.

Aided by the Industrial Arts Department, the boys become acquainted with the problems of handling tools and materials which they will encounter continually after graduation. Above all, perhaps, it instructs them in the fundamental working relationships which become even more evident in the field of industry.

VOCATIONS

Every man must forge his own way into society and must find a place which best fits his talents, learning, and experiences. The Cocoa High School Vocations Department attempts to draw out the oft-hidden talents, further the learning, and give experience to those who participate in its program. It is a rather awesome task which the Vocations Department takes upon itself in molding the usefulness of an individual.

In the Distributive Education and Diversified Cooperative Education programs, students get valuable on-the-job training. Those enrolled in the latter program receive training in trade, industrial, and office occupations, while those in the former receive their experience in sales and service positions.

For students not planning to attend college, there are courses in Vocational Drafting, Vocational Electronics, and Auto Mechanics. These are designed to build a foundation for employment in these various fields.

The Library

LIBRARY

Between the covers of a book there are pages which contain treasures of unsurpassed value. These are the jewels of thought and knowledge which have been formed by the tremendous pressures within the mind—pressures of curiosity, of intelligence, and of perception. Perhaps it is unique that the treasures of a book are never withheld from those minds that go in search of their secrets and tarry to dwell upon the pages.

The Library at Cocoa High is indeed a refuge for seeking minds. It is kept vibrantly alive by the refreshment of ideas contained within new volumes. Indeed, there is no lack of material at Cocoa High to encourage the forward march of learning.

CAFETERIA

Students often discover around about lunch time that their thoughts are tempted away from study by tantalizing odors issuing from the vicinity of the cafeteria. Each day brings with it a valiant effort on the part of Mrs. Davis and her staff to fill 2300 empty stomachs (often more aptly described as bottomless pits). We are indeed fortunate to possess such a devoted staff.

Probably some of the most harried people around school are our custodians. Cheerfully bearing the brunt of student forgetfulness and carelessness, they go about their tasks. In the simple concept of a job well done, they have endeared themselves to both students and faculty.

Homecoming '63 - a Time to Remember

DE Club II copped first prize in the float division.

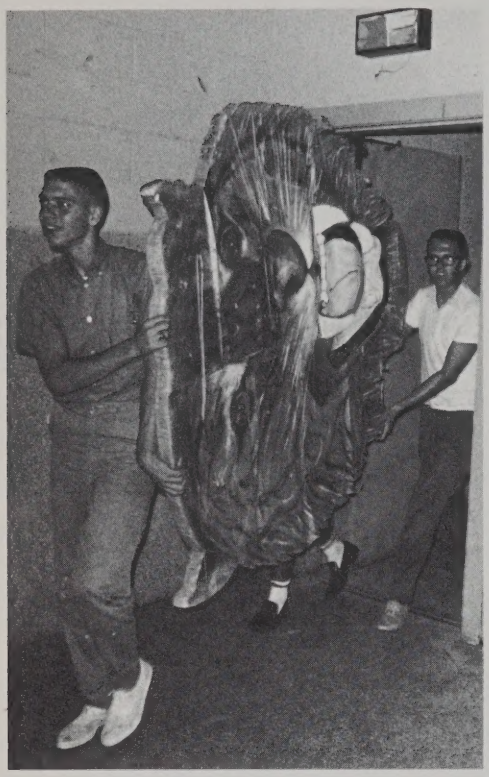
"On our honor, always Tigers"—declared the National Honor Society.

Homecoming was a grand success this year, outdoing all that had been before.

Mr. Stevens and Rick Wagner helped make this Homecoming one of the best.

The Seniors vow never to forget their Tiger heritage.

"Forever, Every Man a Tiger."



Ron and Scott are back from the hunt and what a catch!

There seemed to be a lot of new faces at Homecoming or else college has changed the old ones.

Our Miss Victory is a ravishing beauty. Her fans line the street just to catch a glimpse.

Hey gang! Step to it. Just three more miles and you can rest your numb, aching feet.

There was a note of nostalgia mixed in generally with the enthusiasm of 1963 Homecoming. The past holds a revered spot in the minds of those to whom it has been a rich experience and certainly the years at CHS have not been lacking in this respect. So once again, in 1963, as always, the past draws with the magnet of its memories those who have been a part of it.

The festivities began officially on Thursday evening, October 24, with the traditional Tiger Growl complete with bonfire and burned Grenadiers. Friday afternoon brought the anticipated procession of cars and lovely Homecoming candidates. Decorated to the theme of "Forever; every man a tiger," the DE Club won first prize in the float competition and the National Honor Society and Debate Club tied for top honors in the car division.

The highlight of the activities was the crowning of the Homecoming Queen. Amid smiles, tears, applause, (and rain) Nancy Oswald was named to adorn the throne. The festivities were fittingly brought to a close by the Homecoming dance with students, alumni and guests adding one more happy experience to the past. Next year it would be time for the Seniors to remember.

MISS NANCY OSWALD

Mr. Stevens has the distinctive honor of crowning the beaming queen.

Sue Smith and Marsha Carrier congratulate Nancy Oswald, the new Homecoming Queen.

Nancy Oswald steps out onto the field and into the spotlight that accompanies a Homecomign Queen.

Gloria Rish—Football Candidate

We present the 1963 Homecoming Queen and her court.

To become a homecoming queen or even a candidate is perhaps one thing of which every girl dreams. The meaning of being selected for this honor is significant precisely because of the fact that the selection is based not merely on beauty. As the old saying goes, "Beauty is only skin deep," and Cocoa High prides herself on her emphasis of other characteristics such as personality, friendliness, and school-spiritedness. We feel that this year's corps of candidates exemplifies everything that is inherent in the honor.

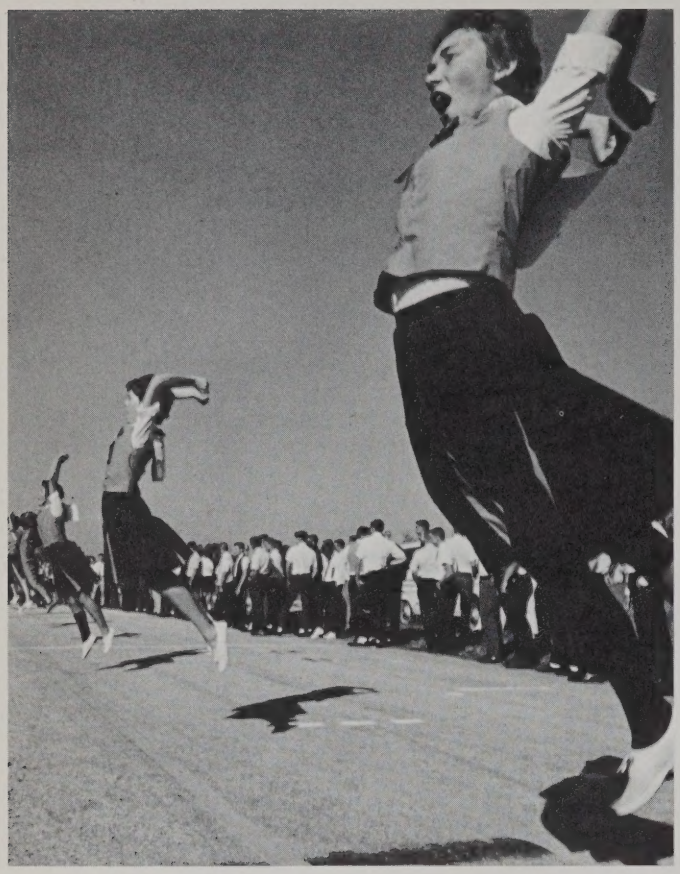
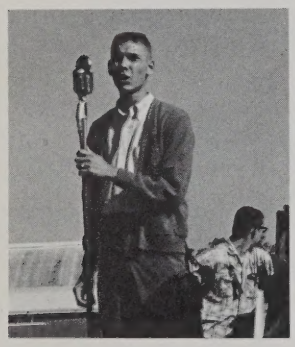
Cocoa High Explodes in a Week of Spirit



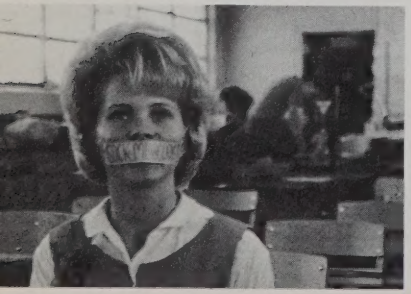
Spirit week culminated in a mighty cheer for the Tigers.

You can always count on the seniors for a little extra noise.

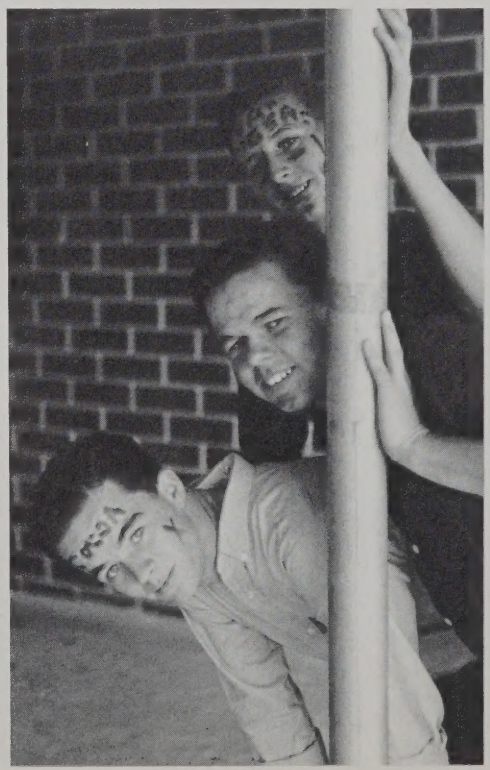
Rick Wagner urges victory over Melbourne.



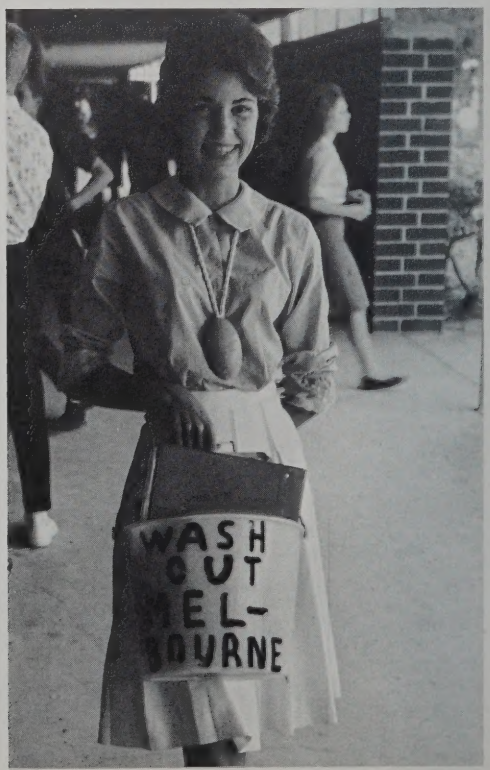
Silence is golden — and difficult to keep.

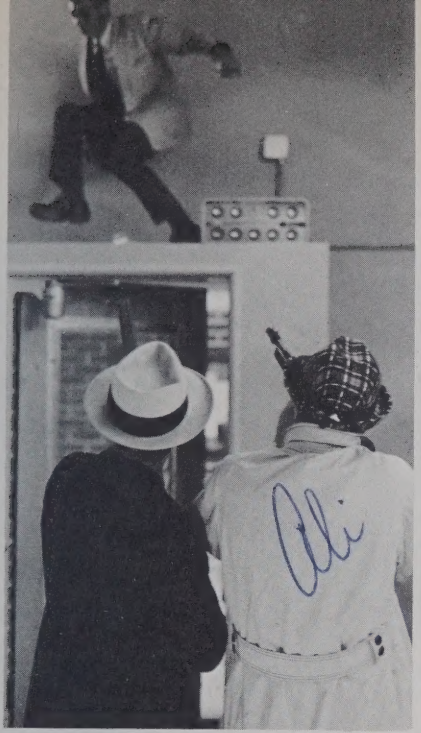


Some upperclassmen really got hold of the sophomores.



Stephanie Bilott is going to do the washing of Melbourne.





Hey you guys! Don't you know zooks are out of season?

Tomilu Morrow's eyelashes are the envy of every girl.

"The better to SEE you with, my dear," gleefully cackles Lyn MacFarland.

On the week of November 4, there was a new ingredient in the air around Cocoa High. Science hasn't determined exactly what it was and perhaps the only explanation is the fact that it was the week before the Melbourne game.

The various classes vied with one another to see which could contribute the most of that inexplicable substance called Spirit. For the Sophomores it was wash day and they certainly did a swell job of "Washing out Melbourne." The Juniors, decked out in revolutionary red, proclaimed their motto: "Down with Melbourne!" There was danger a plenty as the Seniors' maffia crept en force through the alleys of CHS on their way to "Mob Melbourne!"

At last the great day arrived and after two hours of sacrificial silence, CHS students gathered on the slope of the track field under prospective "blue skies." All of a sudden the signal for Two Bits was given and a mighty cloud of spirit mushroomed over the school.

After them men! They're trying to escape, but the faculty's not going to get away from the posse this time.

Ali Steinbach, Ralph Zuccarini, Ronnie Offenhauser and Karl Nessamar are notorious . . . for what we're not sure.

Mike Anderson has been to see his beauty counselor.

The mighty class of '64 opened the floodgates and from their great reservoir of talent flowed a torrential stream of entertainment which has scarcely been equaled at Cocoa High. A host of amateurs really "showed their stuff" as they danced, sang, and acted their way through "Senior Frolics."

Talent reveals itself in many shapes and forms and this property was well demonstrated on November 16. There were hootenanies, songs, a flower act, an enactment Billy Goat Gruff, pantomimes and skillful manipulations of various musical instruments.

The evening fittingly came to an end with the presentation to Mr. Terrell, the Senior Frolics advisor, of a stool and paintbrush with which to show his talent as well as a few other tokens of appreciation.

For Darla Beverage and Jenny Kovace flowers have an odd attraction.

Ellyn Dorfman delighted the audience with her talent.

Senior Frolics Brings All Kinds of Talent

"Certainly Mr. Serling, the seniors would love to frolic in the twilight zone."

Wendy Wenner really doesn't think she's the Easter bunny.

Anne McCurdy "enjoys being a girl." (It's not hard to see why.)

Nancy Jones bubbles over with talent.

Our cheerleaders are versatile to say the least. Obviously their talents encompass more than just cheering.

Better run fast boys. The girls got a terrible hungry look in their eyes. They wants a man and they wants him bad.

"And do you Earthquake McGoon takes Daisy Mae to be your wedded wife . . ."

The lights dimmed and hush settled over the audience as the curtain rose. The stage seemed to deny the barriers of time and place as the audience was transported to Dogpatch, U.S.A. Coming to CHS from Broadway, "Li'l Abner" delighted the enthusiastic crowd as they laughed at the antics of the various characters and joined in the general spirit of hilarity.

The leading roles were held by Don Holcombe as Li'l Abner, Sandy Spence as Daisy Mae, Linda Mitchell as Mammy Yokum, Fred McLam as Pappy, Ken Martin as Marryin' Sam, and Gary Heck as Earthquake McGoon. Susan Harward was the Student Director. The wonderful success of the production owed a great deal to the superb direction of Miss Elizabeth J. Heater.

Hmm, looks like them Dogpatchers is cookin' up some right powerful stuff. In fact, I guess there's no one quite sure what it's supposed to do.

Shirley Laughlin as Stupifyin' Jones was mighty stupifyin'.

Daisy Mae seems to be the gal for Li'l Abner. He seems awful proud of her, too.

"Li'l Abner" Transports Us to Dogpatch, USA

Cocoa High's dance band found itself in Dogpatch.

Ah, Ma, I'd ruther have a fish any day than a girl. They're lots more purty.

I'd swear on a coon—the dern thing was that long. Why, I ain't never seen nothing so bloomin' big.

Beta Royalty were Nancy Oswald, George Haberkern, Buffa Alderman, Woody Beck, Marsha Carrier, Ken Martin, Cheryl Lyndon, Wayne Anthony, Mary Repass, and Wayne Barksdale.

Strange and Exotic Spirits Attend the Beta Fall Prom

Marsha Carrier and Ken Martin reigned as Prince and Princess.

Voodoo spirits lurked in the mystical and hypnotic atmosphere of the Beta Fall Prom.

Boom . . . Boom . . . Boom . . . The exotic drums began to beat out the mystical rhythm of "Black Magic." The atmosphere was charged with the power of the Voodoo gods. Tiki idols with their grotesque features demanded allegiance to the gods which inhabited them.

This scene is perhaps rather deceptive—for instead of taking place on some obscure, picturesque Caribbean island, it dominated the motif of the Beta Club Fall Prom. With palm fronds, exotic flowers and coconuts to help, it wouldn't have been difficult to transform oneself into a carefree islander.

The evening's ceremonies were culminated with the crowning of Marsha Carrier as princess by Sue Smith and Ken Martin as prince by Mr. Stevens.

Jenny Kovace has a fine looking pigskin, but she may not have it long!

The Senior cheerleaders are a right lively group of vivacious maidens bedecked in stylish attire.

Who ever said that girls can't play football?!! One look at the powderpuff gridiron greats would be enough to make anyone retract such a statement. For two weeks before the great battle, feelings ran high as the Seniors sought to "Jinx the Juniors" and the Juniors in turn set out to "Shrivel the Seniors." With the beautiful "cheerleaders" practicing their graceful movements and the feminine roughnecks learning the treacherous tricks of the gridiron trade, it was destined to be a real fight to the finish. As fate would have it, tradition toppled that night when the Seniors capitulated to Junior technique and determination by a score of 13-6.

Valentines Dance Unlocks Hearts and Fun

Peggy Thompson and Ken Martin, decked in the delightful head-dresses of Valentine royalty, enjoy a dance.

The Student Council unlocked many hearts and a lot of fun to boot when it sponsored the annual Valentine's Dance. The theme of "Key to my Heart" was carried out with a multitude of red, pink, and white hearts and several large keys to unlock even the most heavily guarded hearts. Helium-filled balloons clung to the ceiling, adding to the light-hearted effect.

Towards the middle of the evening, the secret of the Valentine celebrities was revealed, and Ken Martin and Peggy Thompson succeeded to the throne of hearts. The royal couple, accompanied by the rhythmic music of the Nonchalants honored the court by leading them in a dance. For the evening, the reigning Valentine royalty dispersed smiles and cheerfulness upon the festive assemblage.

The Nonchalants defied anyone to resist their rhythm.

A small cross-section of the assemblage seems to indicate that everyone is entering into the spirit of Valentine's Day.

Peggy, escorted by Dave Kirby, displays the unique look of a new queen.

ORGANIZATIONS

Out of Many - One

Organizational activity is an integral part of school life. Club participation creates a sense of satisfaction in attaining a common goal. However, where there are many diverse clubs, there is often a struggle for superiority. In order to organize the inevitable competition, the Student Council has created the Inter-Club Council.

The life process of the ICC is the regulation of club activity. This it does by awarding dances, acting as spokesman for and harmonizing the activities of the organizations. The ICC also plays a vital part in the success of the Homecoming parade. As special project, the ICC rejuvenated the school beautification project. Were it not for the efforts of the ICC, club activity would not hold the pleasure it now does.

Student Council-- The Burden of Leadership

If you happen to see an over-worked and under-paid looking being walking the corridors of Cocoa High, it's a fairly sure bet that it's a member of the Student Council. Throughout the year they have carried upon strong shoulders a stupendous load of leadership; and there are few who will deny that they have borne their burden well.

The deeds which witness to the active spirit of the Student Council are many and varied. They include parking lot supervision, homecoming plans, publication of Tiger Tips, a March of Dimes Drive, operation of the Tiger Shoppe, the teachers' Christmas party, the Valentine Dance, and the sale of booster ribbons. A significant tribute was bestowed upon this organization when its president and secretary were asked to serve in their respective capacities for the District 5 Student Councils. However, there is perhaps no tribute which is more outstanding than the gratitude which the student body at Cocoa High holds for its Student Council.

Music is a rich dessert which nourishes the "inner man." Its ingredients, when well blended and in the right proportions, produce delicacies which delight the ears. The various members of the band at Cocoa High School have proved themselves to be high quality ingredients.

So great has been the interest in the band among the students that it has been divided into two bands — the Missileland Marching One Hundred and the Tiger Band. Besides performing at football games and participating in parades and Homecoming, the bands give concerts throughout the county. As a tribute to their talent, they received an invitation to the World's Fair in New York.

Miss Heater makes an expressive instrument of the CHS chorus.

The Chorus had quite a long list of activities this year that corresponded with the large number of members amounting to over 300 students. Within the choral program are several sub-groups including two mixed choruses, a girls' chorus, A Cappella Choir, and the "Cocoa Notes," a group in demand at many school and community functions.

During the year there are three major productions for the public, the musical, the Christmas Concert, and the Spring Concert. The real highlight and most important production was the musical, this year's presentation being "Li'l Abner."

At the end of the year come the District and State Contests in addition to the well earned outstanding musician awards.

The door opens and closes . . . Perhaps from time to time one catches a glimpse—mountains of copy and layout sheets, armies of dulled pencils, pictures, schedules, deadlines, and knit brows. The window opens and closes . . . From within a sound escapes —tired laughter, low voices, an expression of pleasure one minute and one of righteous indignation the next, maybe a sigh and a sob. Inside, feverish activity consumes hours of effort. And then from the midst of the chaotic enclosure comes the creation, the excuse, the consolation, the atonement of it all—the Sandscript of '64.

The Editorial Staff slaves over layouts and copy, pictures and names. Armed with pencils and the life of Cocoa High, they march into the realm of creativity and back again triumphantly bearing the Sandscript. Their journey is one of many miles, many hours, and many obstacles. But when all's been said and even more done for the year '63-'64 at Cocoa High, there are still the memories faithfully recorded in the 1964 Sandscript.

Mathematics is the language of science and, as such, it must be able to explain clearly the complexities which science entails. This language must be studied in order to converse about science.

The Mu Alpha Theta, national honorary mathematics society, is organized to promote the interest of each member in the study and application of mathematics. Requiring high scholastic standards of its members, the society endeavors to supplement their classroom work with lecture programs by members and guests on mathematical topics of interest. Its main projects are a mathematical tutoring service and sponsorship of the National Mathematics Contest.

Honor Society - The Measure of Highest Achievement

Entrance into the National Honor Society, requiring a 3.5 average, is one of the highest scholastic honors which Cocoa High offers to her students. It is with a deep sense of pride and achievement that the members of this organization wear their NHS pins, which symbolize its outstanding characteristics of leadership, scholarship, character, and service.

The two big projects of the National Honor Society are the induction of new members in an impressive ceremony in the presence of the student body, and the graduation ball in honor of the Senior Class. In order to finance the latter, the NHS sponsors a football dance and its traditional County Fair Dance. In addition, NHS won first place for its entry in the Homecoming Parade, and its members attended both District and State Conventions.

Cocoa High's battalion of scholars falls into battle formation in the continuous struggle against ignorance. With their shields of character, scholarship and leadership, they drill in preparation for the day when each of them will meet the foe in earnest. The Beta Club of CHS is proud to have drawn so many recruits into its ranks.

Among the various campaigns on this year's enviable record were the Fall Prom, the junior survey, a homecoming float, the Induction Banquet, and the Christmas food baskets. The year's activities were highlighted by the Beta state convention in Jacksonville.

Read All About It

Every two weeks, the staff of Tiger Topics presents another chapter in the life of Cocoa High, "hot off the press." Full of the latest flashes and the most spicy gossip, Tiger Topics captures the interest of every student at CHS.

There is no subject beyond the reach of the reporters, who leave no stone unturned in search of news-worthy bits of information. Tiger Topics includes coverage on the important sports and organizational events as well as on special features, intriguing mysteries and, of course, the grapevine.

Once again its crew has steered the Anchor Club across new seas of activity to varied ports of success. Seeking new lands of service to explore, the club has sailed great distances in directions of home, school, and community.

The outstanding project of the year was the clothes drive, the climax of which was a bundle dance. Other community projects included the TB drive, Heart Fund collections, wrapping Christmas gifts for the Mental Health Association, preparing Easter baskets for the retarded children.

School-wise, the club explored many areas—a glass enclosed bulletin board for the Guidance Department, campus beautification, service club bulletin boards and the cafeteria Christmas tree.

The Key Club has, with their endeavors, unlocked the door of service and found behind it the rewards of such activity. Working together as a club, the boys seek to promote the excellence of the individual.

Sponsoring a dance to collect money for CARE, donating to the Heart Fund and the March of Dimes, and collecting for the Salvation Army as well as assisting the hospitals in fund raising activities, have built an impressive door. The club is also discussing sending an American Indian child through school. School activities include book cover sales, basketball programs, a basketball roster sign, a football schedule sign at Provost Park, a spirit sign, and a restroom clean-up campaign. However, Key Club isn't all work and no play. Hayrides, Christmas parties, and other activities are added attractions.

There are few organizations at Cocoa High that are as dedicated to the ideals to which they adhere as the Interact Club. Throughout five years of the club's existence the name Interact (formerly Wheel Club) has become synonymous with service.

If there is any doubt concerning the meaning of the word service, the diversified activities of the Interact Club define it quite adequately. The club collected for the Heart Fund and the March of Dimes, sold football programs, donated money to the United Fund and the United States Olympic Team, and also contributed to a scholarship fund for Latin Lands and the T.B. Fund. The Interact Club has left its mark on Cocoa High itself. They maintained a salute board, started the clean-up of the Class of '63 Monument, cleaned lockers, set up road signs for CHS and entered a float in the Homecoming parade.

School spirit, which to the Pep Club means respect for the Alma Mater as well as cheers for the Tigers, finds its source in the membership of the Pep Club, and from there flows throughout all of Cocoa High, carrying the vitality of the Tiger cause. This organization can proudly take much of the credit for the superb exhibition of Tiger Spirit in the face of defeat as well as victory.

This year the Pep Club made quite an array of activity with their many projects. In the outlay were such things as decorating goal posts, presenting flash cards, providing buses for out of town games, holding a car wash and dance, and decorating a float for Homecoming. As an added attraction this year, the Pep Club is providing letters for the members who have earned them by participating in the projects.

"My Words Shall Not Pass Away"

". . . Earth shall pass away but my words shall not. . . ." Mark 13:31. The members of the Bible Club study and believe this word. Acting on the belief that a student's spiritual life is as important as his social life, the Bible Club attempts to preserve the faith on which our country was founded.

Every month the Bible Club participates in a rally in which many religious organizations get together for quizzing and general discussions.

Those skilled in the art of argument have banded together this year for the first time in recent years. Every other week the members of the Debate Club go to battle with well placed points of information concerning public affairs. However, no one really loses in such a war of wits, since all emerge with invaluable training in public speaking.

As members of the National Forensic League, Cocoa High's brilliant debators participated in the extensive research and debate on Medicare, the League's national topic. In pursuit of intellectual challenges, they have explored the student resources of other schools as well as those of Cocoa High through intramural, interscholastic debating.

The Biology Club finds time to go digging for interesting fossils.

Science has a special place of honor at Cocoa High and interest in it among students is highly encouraged.

Haul out the aqua lungs—the Biology Club is at work again. They permeate whatever they are doing with interest, giving it life. As in the past, landscaping has been a speciality of the club, for which purpose they assumed land sections of several other clubs. Other interests include skindiving, and underwater archeology, to which end, they made several explorations this year.

Anyone going to Cocoa High on Saturday morning goes strictly at his own risk. Beware! Along the science wing there are all sorts of strange experiments and reactions taking place, and no one's safety is guaranteed. But the onward march of science must continue. On Saturdays the members do research work or help other science students who are having difficulty with their studies. In addition the club holds a slide rule class at the beginning of each school year and a school science show in March.

Sportsmanship Is Their Most Important Product

Anyone who maintains that athletics is only for boys is liable to bring the wrath of the Girls' Athletic Association down upon himself. They have demonstrated throughout the year beyond a question of doubt that girls too can excel in sports. Those of the fairer sex interested in building and maintaining strong bodies have found the opportunity to do so in GAA.

Besides participating in athletic events among themselves they challenged other schools to battle in basketball, track, and softball. The most important project in GAA, however, has been to show the girls that no matter what the event, no matter who wins or loses, sportsmanship should be the ultimate goal.

Mrs. Pelham.

The value of experience is not to be underestimated by anyone. It should be a constant guide and companion for all who wish to journey successfully into the future. Eventually it will lead to untravelled paths of accomplishment.

The DCT Club is composed of students enrolled in the Diversified Cooperative Training program. The DCT sponsored the Sadie Hawkins' Dance in cooperation with the DE Club. The members also attended the District and State Conventions.

In the fast, complex movement of today's society, business plays an increasingly influential role. As its importance grows, so must the number of people interested in this field, and so too must grow the necessary experience for adequate preparation.

The two DE Clubs are composed of students enrolled in the Distributive Education Program. Various projects of the clubs this year have included their first place winning Homecoming float, civic fund raising projects, State Leadership Conference, sponsorship of the Sadie Hawkins' Dance, and an employer-employee banquet.

Through the DE programs, students are of service to others as well as themselves.

The voice of experience helps one to obtain experience.

Its purpose is to promote and develop understanding on the part of others for the value of these occupations.

The club's experiments in the field of school service include a Safety Drive in their cars and to contribute to the erection of seating areas at the new pool site by means of plans, construction and in part, finance. Cocoa High Tigers

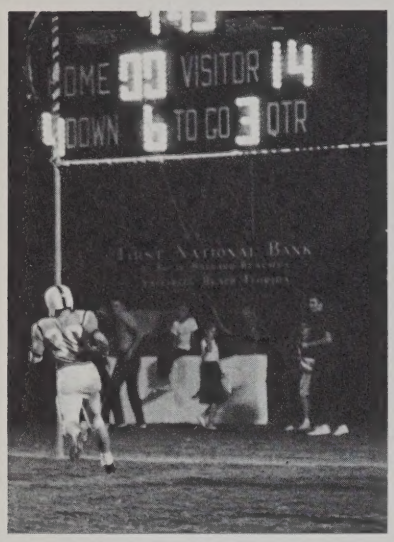
A football game produces a varied assortment of reactions from the spectators.

The Tiger defense is drawn like flies to the ball carrier.

Tiger Technique Squashes the Scorpions

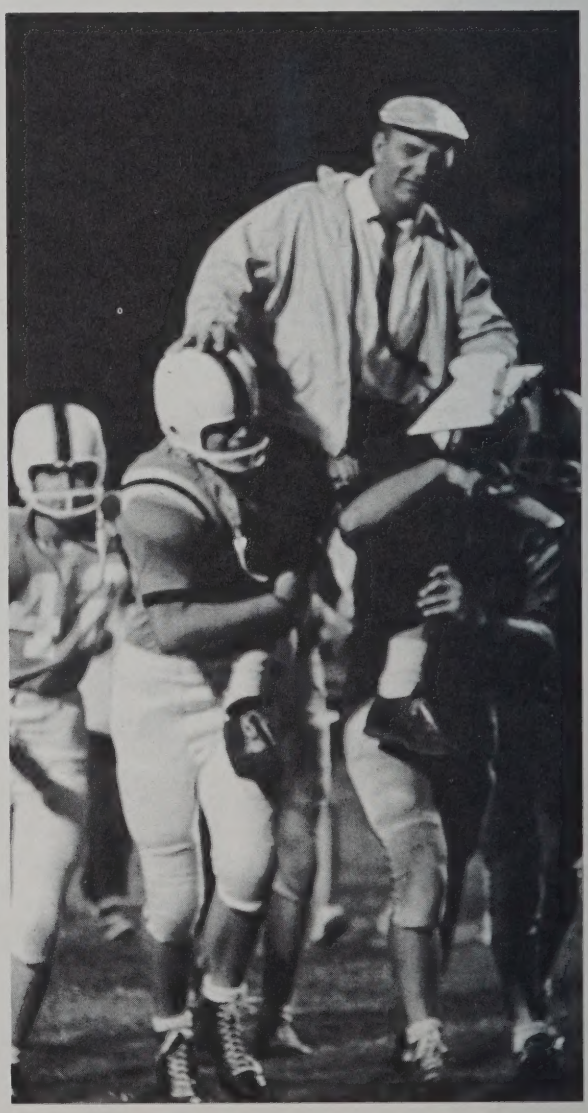


Reinholdt scores a touchdown.

Brad McClam takes advantage of a split second to capture a loose ball.

It was open season on the Satellite Scorpions as the Bengals set out to make a victory for the excited fans. An exceptional defensive game was attested to by the fact that the Scorpions were only allowed to pass over the goal line once during the entire game. The first fruits of Tiger technique were gathered when Brad McClam made a 75 yard jaunt down the field on a punt return. Minutes later John Reinholdt repeated the stunt with another 42 yard punt return. Two more touchdowns kept fans on their feet as Dave Amman clutched in a pass and stepped over the goal line and Kenny Gray scored on an end sweep. With a final score of 26-6, the Tigers savored the sweet taste of victory. Little did they know that it was to be a lean season and they would not again leave defeated foes.

Out of the muddle of players the prized ball emerges.

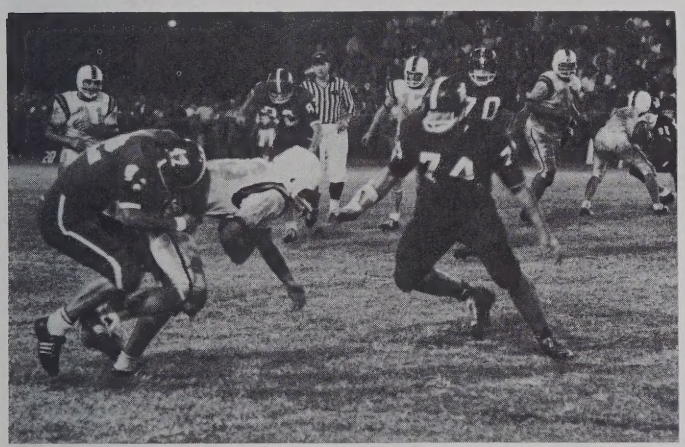


Coach McCoy rides off the field in victory style.

Tigers Tie Titusville

Rick Wagner accepts the Good Sportsmanship Trophy on behalf of CHS.

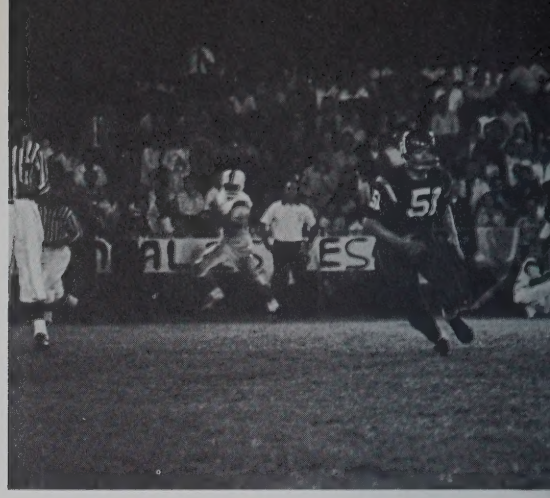
The mighty Tigers, anxious for another victory, stalked on familiar terrain against Titusville. Apparently they meant to get that victory, for in the opening minutes of the game a pass play from John Reinholdt to Gary Wright brought the first six points to Cocoa's side of the board. The PAT was stopped and the Tigers had to satisfy themselves with a six point lead. The Tigers seemed hot on the trail of victory. However, the opposition's defense stiffened its resistance and for the rest of the game the Tigers lost the winning path. In the last quarter of the game Titusville outwitted the wily Tigers and managed to score, although they were unable to make the PAT. The final score left neither team a winner or a loser and the Tigers returned to their den until hunger for success drove them out once again.



Wayne Anthony goes down fighting as a Titusville Terrier grabs from behind.

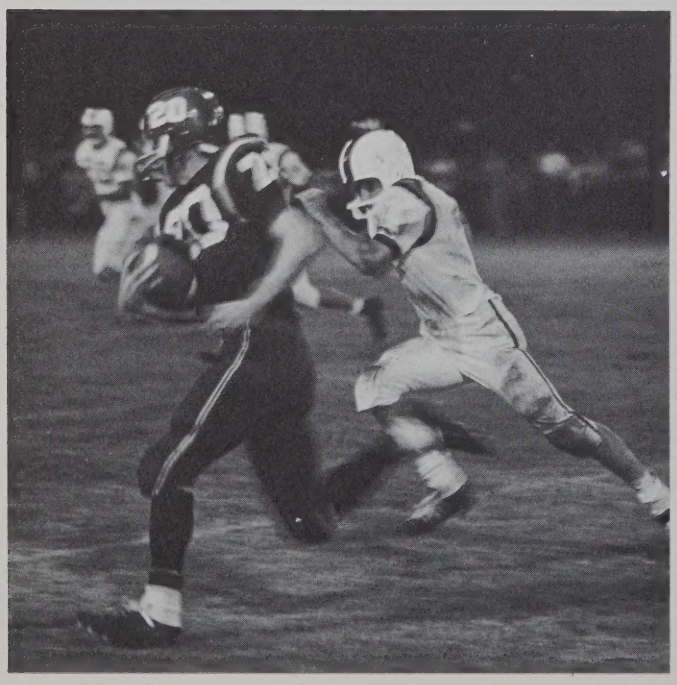
Steve Greer latches onto a Terrier trying to sneak away with the ball.

Gary Wright goes off tackle as Wayne Anthony performs the tricks of the blocking trade.



The Tiger bench is a place of tension and high strung nerves as the Colonial Grenadiers advance during the Homecoming game.

Brad McClam demonstrates the need for speed as he chases his opponent.



A referee's job is not always the most pleasant amid the excitement of football.

Homecoming Excitement Handicaps Cocoa's Tigers

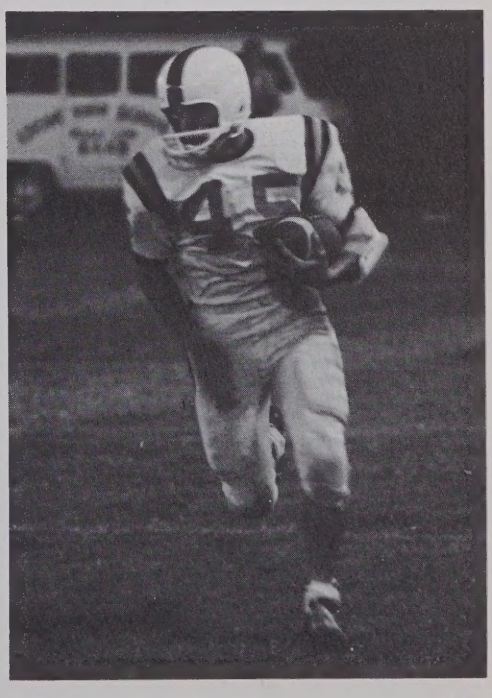
Gary Wright thinks of yardage as he takes off with a punt return.

Kenny Gray lost yardage, but four Grenadiers to one Tiger is hardly fair.

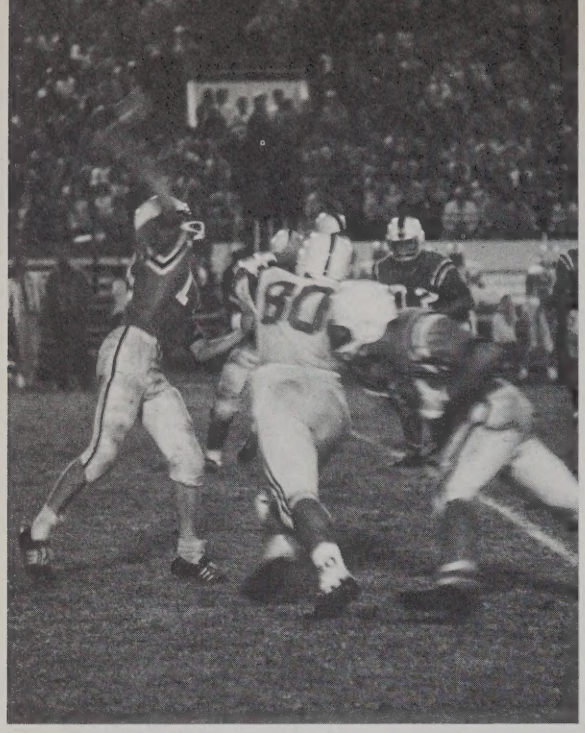
The fighting Tigers hustled onto the field, determined to carry on the Tiger tradition of victory at Homecoming with Colonial. In the first half, the Bengals seemed overly anxious and, in the excitement, the defensive line allowed three touchdowns. However, the indomitable Tigers settled down to business, making a recovery when Fred Tucker made six points for Cocoa in the second quarter, and Walter Robidoux found a hole in the opponents' defensive line in the fourth quarter. In the second half, the Tiger defense stiffened considerably and the Grenadiers were unable to make headway. Despite their determination and stamina, the mighty Tigers were unable to overcome the handicap of the initial plays and the final score tallied 18-13. Though the Tigers had lost the game point-wise, they had demonstrated the well-known Tiger tradition of perseverance in victory or defeat.

John Reinholdt goes back to pass as Walt Robidoux and Wayne Anthony block the Grenadier effort.

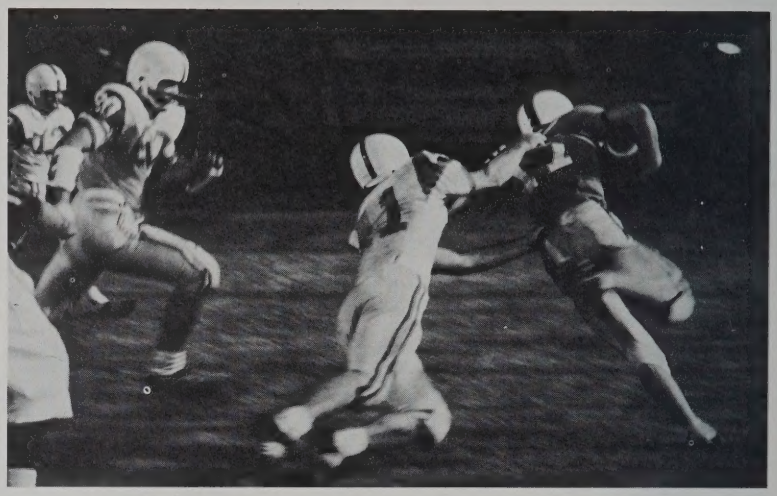
Brad McClam encounters no traffic on an end sweep.



Field Goal Defeats Tigers



John Reinholdt raises a mighty Tiger paw to pass the ball.

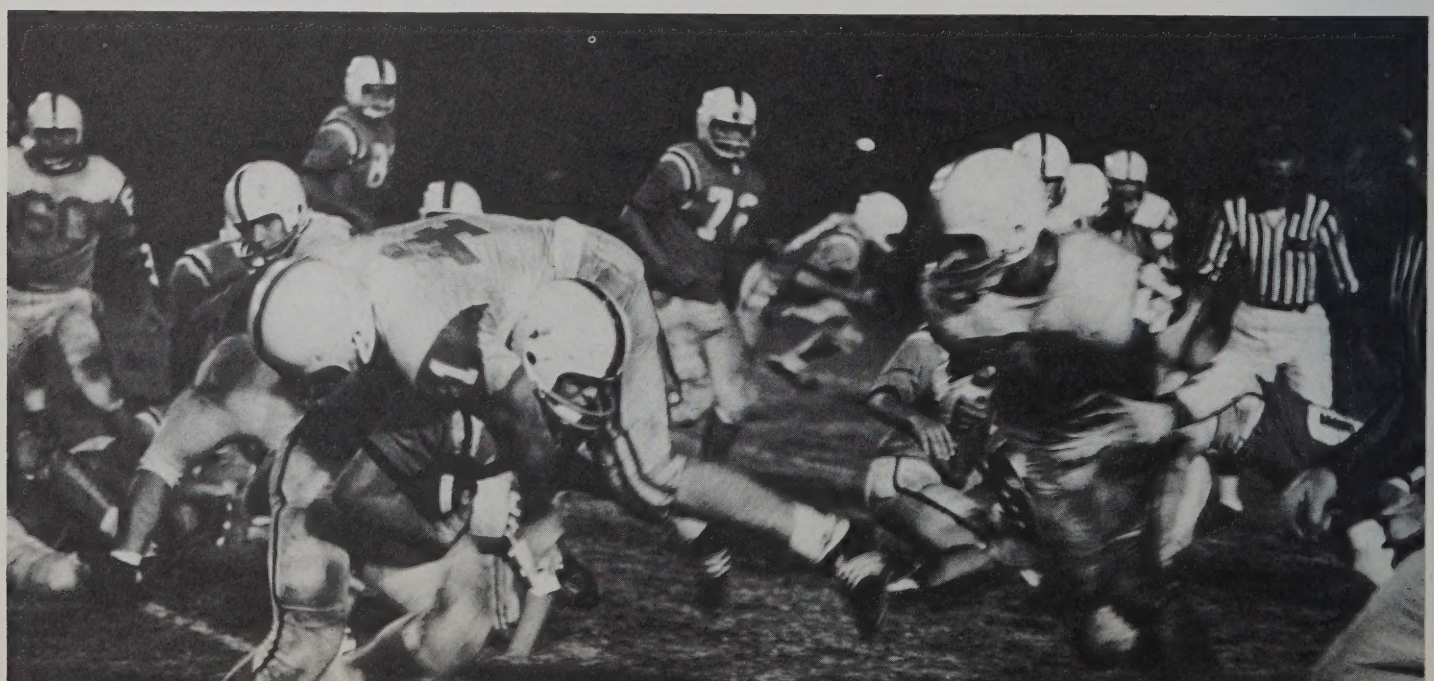


John Reinholdt attempts an end sweep, but a flock of Edgewater Eagles don't approve.

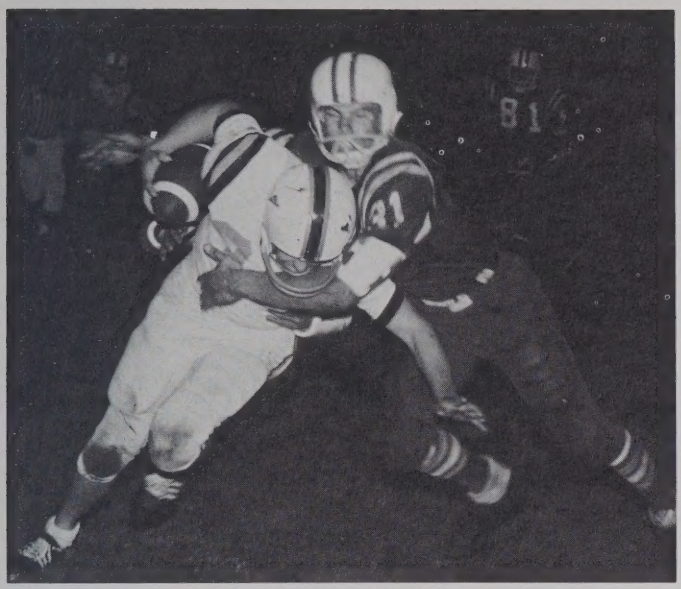
Everyone gets in the act as John Reinholdt tackles an Edgewater fullback.

The Edgewater Eagles were saved by the gun when they dared to pit their strength against that of the fierce Tigers. In the first half four attempts to score were thwarted by the determined Bengals emphasizing the effectiveness of their unusually active defensive line. Don Shields intercepted two passes during the game but the Tigers were unable to capitalize on them. Finally in the closing quarter the Eagles managed to sneak a field goal past the Tiger defense. In the following kickoff the Tigers took the ball on their own 45-yd. line and found themselves on the ten mark as the clock ran out leaving the score at 3-0. Who knows—another few seconds or a minute and perhaps the Tigers might have taken another prize back to their den.

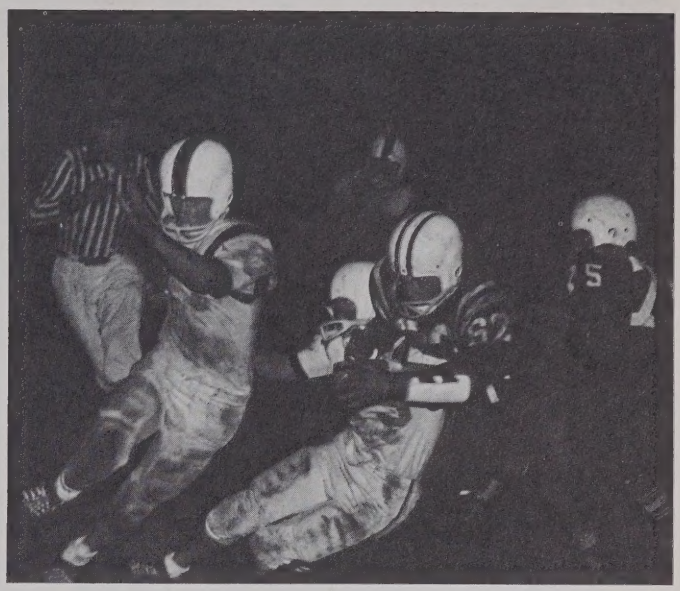
The opposition seems to enjoy playing piggyback when Walter Robidoux is the piggy and especially when he has the pigskin.



Victory Eludes Tiger Efforts



Kurpa demonstrates the feared Tiger clutch as he tackles a Bulldog.



Reinholdt goes out of bounds to avoid the snapping jaws of Bulldogs.

After a busy week of spirit production, loud hopes were voiced for the capitulation of the enemy Melbourne Bulldogs. Despite Cocoa's most diligent efforts, the Bulldogs nosed their way through the Tiger defense twice. However, the Tigers never give up easily and this game was no exception. In the last quarter Walt Robidoux ran through a touchdown and with the PAT, the final score was 13-7. Though the tremendous Tiger spirit had failed to sustain them, the Tigers, both fans and players, showed their knowledge of another type of spirit—that of competition, which holds that whatever one does, he does to the best of his ability.

Amid great fanfare the Cocoa Tigers line up before the Melbourne game.

The Tiger mascot speaks words of comfort.

The fundamental techniques of football were drilled indelibly into the Tiger Cubs thanks to the superb supervision of Coaches Jim Jenkins and Bob Paskel. As the Cubs learned, they began to gain the poise and confidence they needed to bring honor to Cocoa High with their undefeated season.

Pawing at their opponents unmercifully, the Cubs allowed only twelve points to be stolen the whole season. On the other hand, their combined total amounted to a grand score of 162. The terrific fighting spirit of the Cubs predicts a bright and successful future full of victories for the Tigers.

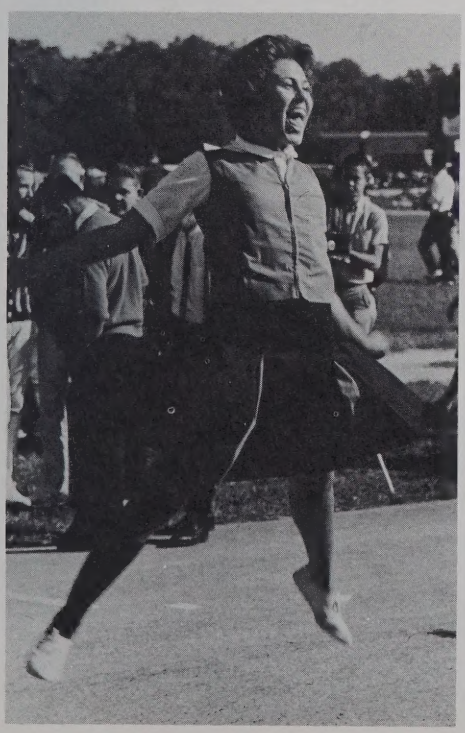
Any athletic team must anchor itself not only in the techniques of its game but also in the support behind it. With this in mind, our varsity cheerleaders have exerted themselves to be sure that the Tigers have the spirit and support they need. Their efforts have often taken such entertaining forms as the marriage of Miss Victory to Mr. Hairy Tiger, the silence period of spirit week, and the pep rallies. The student body as well as the athletic teams certainly owes a debt of gratitude to this group which has led them so faithfully in the SPIRITual aspects of school life.

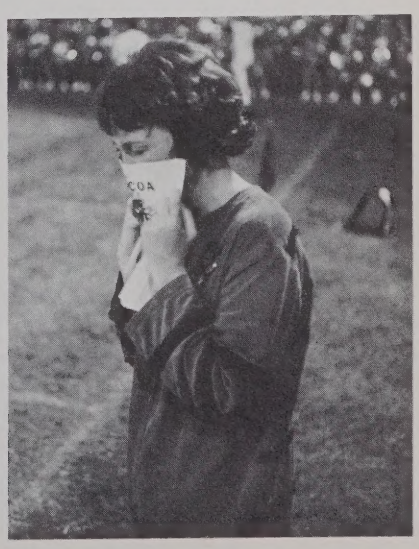
Cheerleaders are a type of plant that manufactures spirit for the Tigers to feed on.

Mary Lu Baker releases a burst of pent up energy.



Dot Lanier amplifies her enthusiasm.

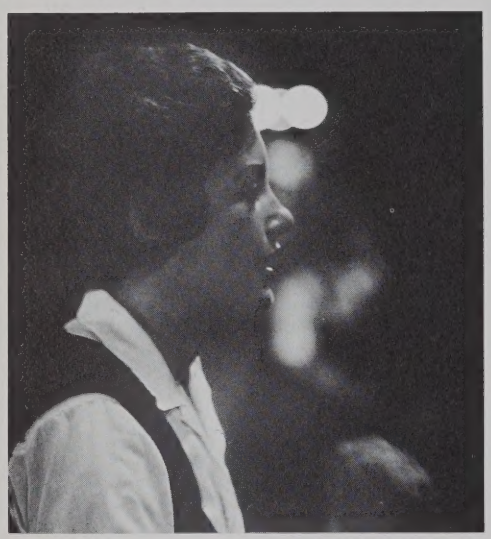
Tiger sorrow is expressed by Sandy Mourfield.



JV's-Basics of Spirit

JV squad—Liz Jay, Karen Stephenson, Sharon Stephenson, Barbara Baggett, Brenda Wilee, Linda Demming, Marsha Smith, Christi Nichols.

The JV Cheerleaders practice the art of creating spirit, looking forward to the day when they will attain varsity status. From these cheerleaders, the Tiger Cubs received the support they needed to carry them to very successful seasons, both in football and basketball. With their pep and spirit, the JV Cheerleaders have become a vital part of Cocoa High's athletic scene.



Liz Jay mirrors a moment of indecision.

JV Captains Liz Jay and Christi Nichols.

Linda Demming wears the expression of a healthy lead.

Barbara Baggett seems intent on coaxing the most possible spirit from Tiger football fans.

Basketball

Tigers Stand Second in State

The year 1964 was fated to inscribe itself indelibly in the annals of basketball history at Cocoa High. Word of the famous Tall Tigers had spread to all corners of the state. Defeating Melbourne 65-26, Fort Pierce 59-29, and Titusville 30-11 at the Group 7 competition, the Tall Tigers dribbled confidently into Regional where Gainesville (67-54) and Palm Beach (77-66) were overpowered.

Steeped in the high hopes and best wishes of the Tiger home front, the players departed to State with aspirations of returning equally steeped in glory and honor for Cocoa High. As Miami High toppled 44-43 under the onslaught, the Tigers found themselves one step within reach of their goal. However, as fate would have it, their final effort was repulsed by Pensacola 58-52 and the Tigers stood, not without their share of pride, Number 2 in the state.

Harry Dunn—Captain

Bob Stinnett—Captain

The tremendously effective efforts of the Tall Tigers have caused the students of Cocoa High to know the thrill and the spirit which stems from having one of the best teams in the state. The Tiger five have dribbled and shot their way to a 23-2 record and a rank of seventh in the state. They have amazed the fans with their technique of ball manipulation, their scoring ability, and most of all, their teamwork. Out of 25 games played, only two teams, Mainland and Palm Beach, managed to overpower, by small margins of 4 points each, the Towering Tigers. None of these accomplishments have been achieved, however, without staggering quantities of practice, effort, and determination. Perhaps the Tiger victories are most valuable when considered on this level.

The JV's Promise a Bright Future for the Tall Tigers

The terrific success of this year's varsity team would never have been possible without the preliminary training that the players received as members of the JV team. Here the prospective Tall Tigers are subjected to their first indoctrination into the serious preparation that basketball requires. In the orientation process only the strongest Tiger Cubs survive to become varsity material.

If the 1964 JV record is a valid indication of the basketball potential which Cocoa High possesses for the next couple of years, then things look very promising. Out of 19 games played, the Tiger Cubs lost only two—to Seabreeze and Edgewater. It's little wonder that the basketball Tigers are looking with anticipation to another victorious year.

As Spring approaches, one frequently sees the raised dust around the bags of the baseball diamond. Time passes on and the activity becomes more feverish—spring training is in full swing. The base marks are alternately protected and sought out with all the skill that can be collected in nine gloves, nine bats, and nine bodies. Throughout the entire season, Cocoa's diamond dictators will be busy building up totalitarian control in baseball territory. It will be a daring team indeed that attempts to revolt against their power.

The Diamond Dictators of CHS Defy Defeat

Homeplate has a mystical attraction to a runner and he'll do most anything to get there ahead of the ball.

Spurgeon Tucker hurls a tempting chance to Gary Wright at bat.

Walt Robidoux seems to epitomize the qualities of an athlete as he prepares to hurl the discus.

The word track covers many athletic activites and aptitudes. However, they all have one thing in common—an intricate combination of co-ordination, endurance, and skill. It is obvious that one is not born with these things, thus, the only logical conclusion is that the excellence of the Tiger tracksters is due to effort and determination. Nothing worthwhile is won without effort, and track is no exception. Their agility and stamina attest quite adequately to anticipations for a terrific season. Every afternoon finds the diligent tracksters out on the field going through their paces, impatient for victory.

Danny Miller takes the hurdle in one seemingly gigantic step.

Steve Headley coils up ready to throw the weighty shotput.

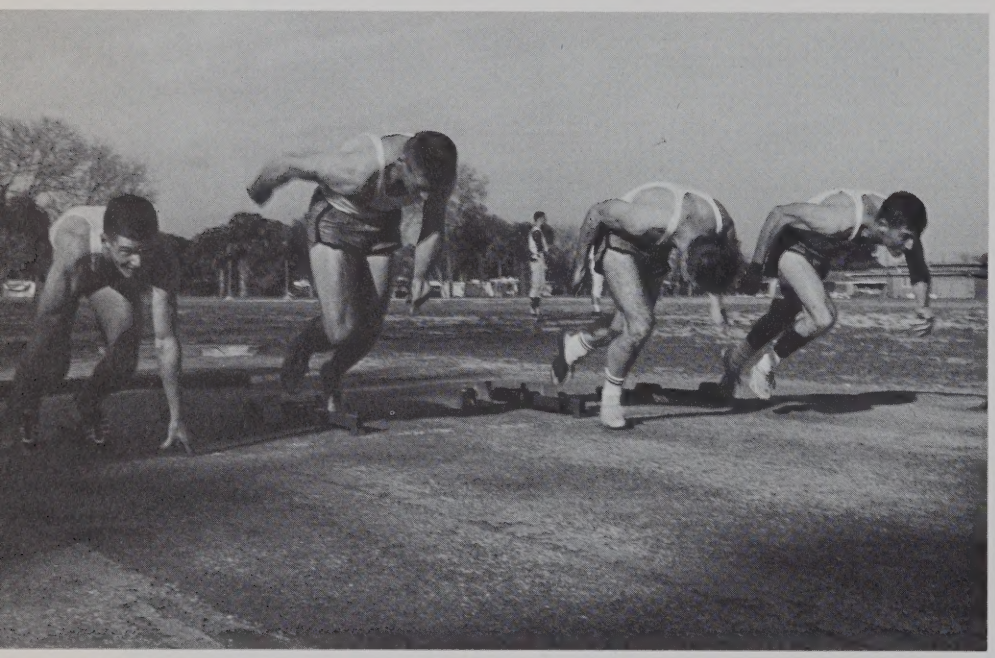
The Skills of Individuals Melt Together to Form a Team



Chuck Gee, Wayne Anthony, Larry Butler, and Danny Miller bend into the anticipation of a race.

Allen Burdick swings up and over on the pole vault.

GOLF TEAM: Hale Baugh, Glen Vaughn, Frank Marucci, Richard Schultheis, Tom Wood, Perry West.

Golf Becomes a Part of the Famed Tiger Athletic Endeavor

Golf has always been an age-old diversion of businessmen to get away from their work or wives as the case may be. However, the course conquerors of Cocoa High have demonstrated quite adequately that these are not necessarily the only golf enthusiasts. For the Tiger Club Clutchers the attraction of the green and aversions to the sand traps alternately encourage and nullify each other. However, as an integral part of the famed Tiger athletic endeavor, this group practices the putts and drive strokes of the game with the diligence and determination characteristic of a true Tiger.

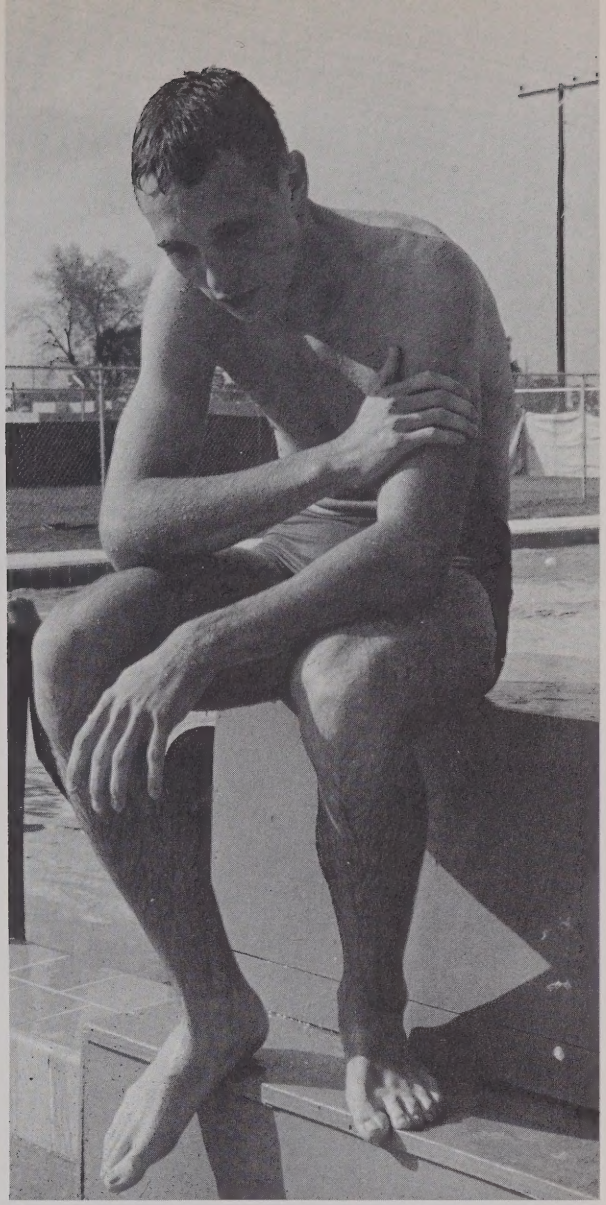
Swimmers Aspire to Fantastic Speeds and Perfect Form

Pat Dekle exhibits perfect form before plunging into Cocoa High's new pool.

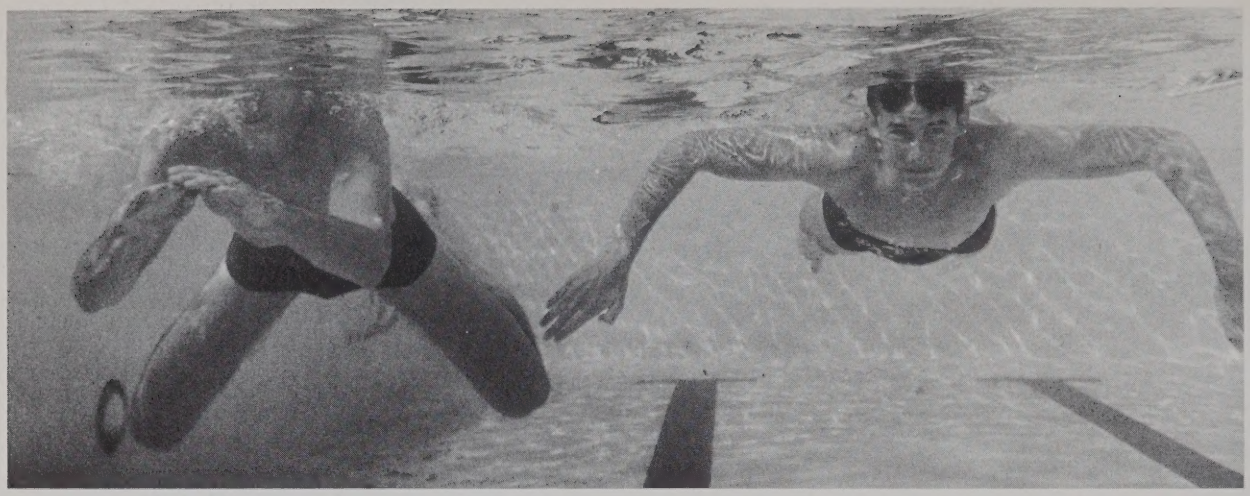
"Swimmers up—Take your Marks—Go!" And the Ti g e r Sharks are off propelling themselves through the water at fantastic speeds. The Sharks aren't fishlike, naturally, but after hundreds of hours of tortuous toil and an infinite number of grueling laps in ice cold water, they begin to take on likenesses somewhat similar to those of fish—at least in actions if not appearance. With "spring" practice beginning in the middle of January, the Tiger Sharks have an edge over those teams less willing to brave the chills, drills, and ills that accompany such daring efforts to flaunt the north wind. Featuring champions in all events, the Tiger Sharks should be ready to take on anyone come March.

Liz Jay dives headlong into the icy water which has become her natural habitat.



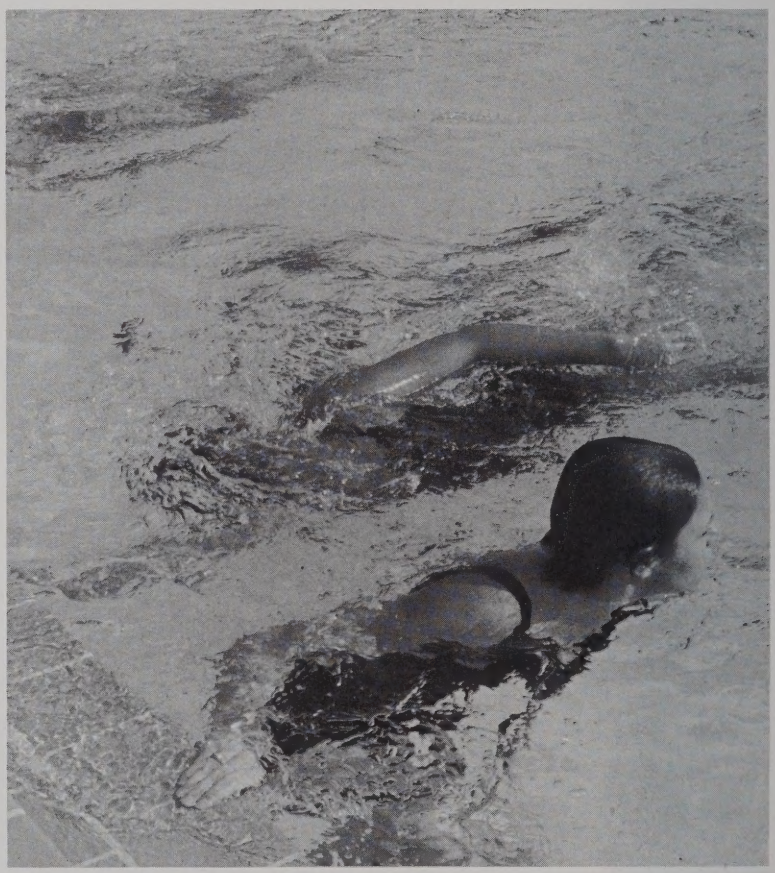
Tom Hutchinson sneaks a moment's breather before the next sprint lap.

FIRST ROW: Steve Williams, Dave Warren, Tom Browne, Jim Bodley, Chris Mullen, Mike Springer, Carl Bromer, Bob Cummings. SECOND ROW: Coach Miller, Don Herring, Phil Coombs, Dave Mitchell, Bruce Harris, Mike Kirk, Lance Weight, Gary Knox, Jerry Stansfield, Steve Greer (mgr.). THIRD ROW: Ross Cruden, Seth Mathews, Bob Albright, Keith Workman, Lee Fulton, Tom Hutchinson, Scott Pederson, Mike King.



Two Tiger Sharks demonstrate the technique of the breaststroke beneath the surface of the water.

Nancy Goldcamp has recently emerged from CHS's liquid igloo.



Chris Nichols leaves the wall reluctantly as another Tiger Shark presses from behind.

Suzi Vick barrels down in her rapid freestyle.

SOPHOMORES

With last year's seniors all educated, learned, and graduated the stage was set for the grand entrance of the sophomores. They made their appearance all right—in such force that denied the upper classmen any right to ignore them. It didn't take them long to find their places in the dramatization of learning which is a continuous act at Cocoa High. Through the year they have played their parts well, coordinating the varied scenes of study, athletics, and activities. Two years still remain as the plot thickens. Skillfully directing the play were David Kirby, President; Ray Woods, Vice-President; Mary Lee Jackson, Secretary; and Brenda Wilee, Treasurer.

JUNIORS

The Juniors have proved themselves hardy warriors in the battle for existence at Cocoa High School. They have stepped along briskly into the thick of books and activities, holding high the banners of '65. Led onward by a group of very capable war-lords, they have met unflinchingly the problems and discouragements of magazine sales, a prom, and other projects. Their wounds and triumphs have indeed proclaimed the juniors worthy of seniority for the coming year.

Seniors

A life is not a monolithic structure but instead is compounded with smaller blocks of existence. The senior year is one such block upon which one stands and surveys the past as well as the future. Twelve years of education lie beneath it, supporting its present significance. Its composition for the CHS student is an array of various activities—Senior Frolics, the class play, Mob Melbourne Day, Powderpuff, the ordering of announcements, measuring for caps and gowns, and finally graduation. It is a block we lay with pride assured that it will sustain the greatest of structures built by the highest of ambitions.

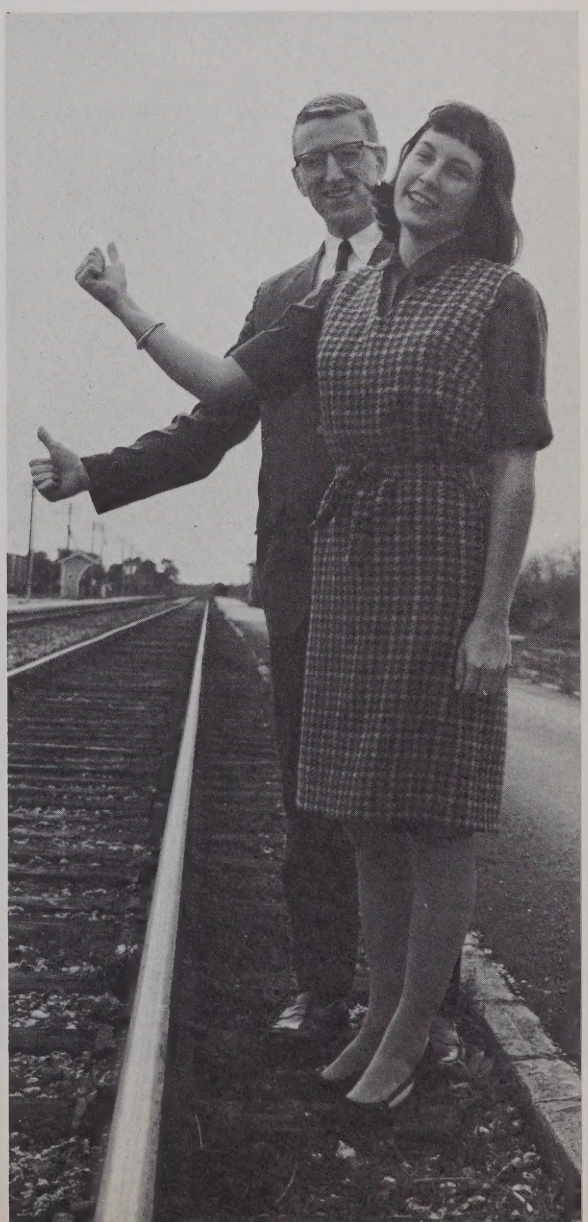
Senior Superlatives

MR. AND MISS CHS
Jenny Kovace
Mike Basquill

Mike and Jenny, as Mr. and Miss CHS, summarize those qualities in a student for which everyone strives. They have been extremely active in school life and have come to be regarded by their fellow classmates as truly outstanding. Mike Basquill, as Senior Class President, and Jenny Kovace, as chairman of Girls' Activities, have gone far beyond the call of duty in their contributions to the welfare and advancement of the school.

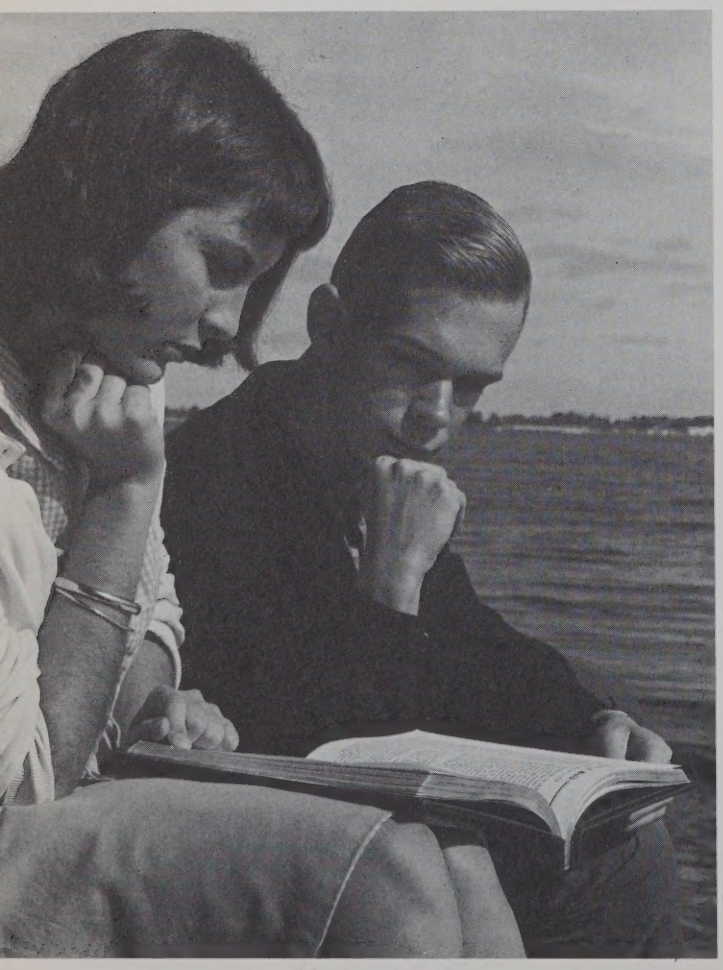
Success is embodied in the ideas, the qualities, and the high goals of the individual. If the past is any indication of the future, then Mike Basquill and Shirli Longacre are beyond a doubt the most likely to succeed. Mike has shown himself to be a leader as President of the Senior Class and a delegate to Boys' State. Shirli was granted the DAR Award and won the district Voice of Democracy essay contest.

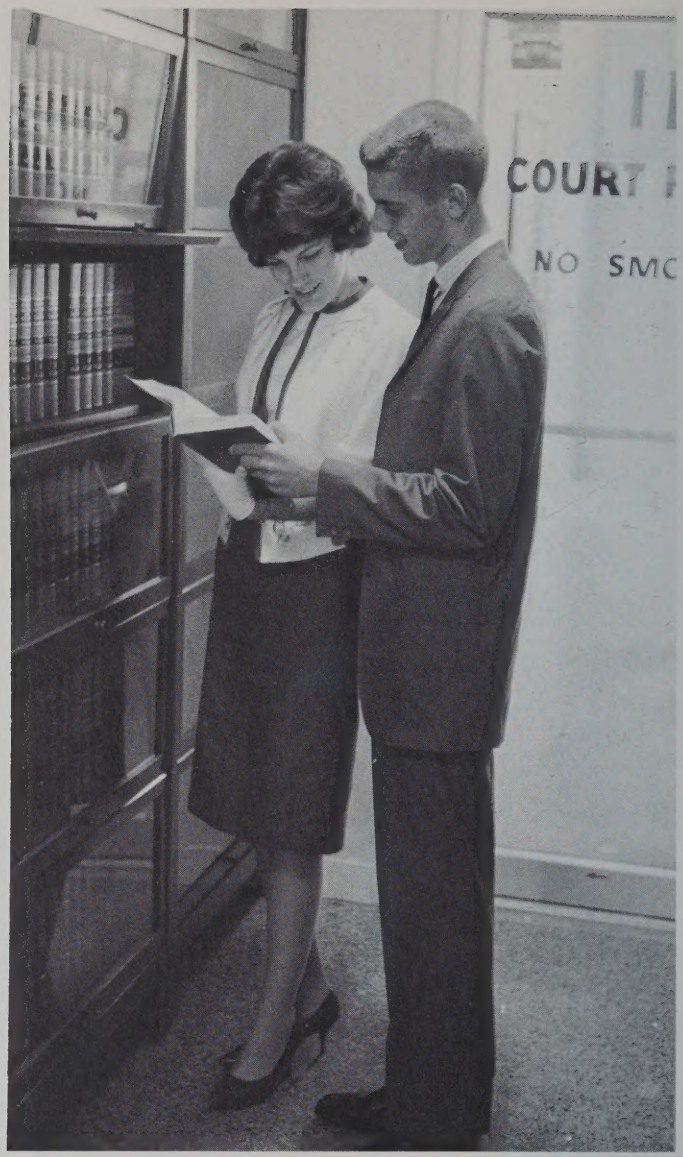
MOST LIKELY TO SUCCEED
Shirli Longacre
Mike Basquill



Although often not credited as such, wisdom is a most precious contribution to mankind. Realizing that only self-satisfaction and knowledge can yield an understanding for others, Shirli Longacre and Richard Scott have dedicated themselves to learning. Both will graduate Summa cum Laude, and are members of National Honor Society and Mu Alpha Theta. Shirli wrote the winning district Voice of Democracy essay, and Richard received the Bausch and Lomb Science Award.

MOST INTELLIGENT
Shirli Longacre
Richard Scott





BEST CITIZENS
Darla Beverage
Ron Wagner

If good citizenship means a concern for public affairs and a desire to serve school and community, then Ron Wagner and Darla Beverage certainly fill the bill. Ron has served as President of Interact, an outstanding service club, as well as Chairman of Boys' Activities on the Student Council. Darla has been particulary active in Anchor Club, another group known for service, and in Student Council as a class representative.

MOST SCHOOL SPIRITED
Jenny Kovace
Robert Pippin

When it comes to school spirit and pride in Tiger honor, Jenny Kovace and Robert Pippin clearly stand out. Robert achieved fame in the notorious form of the spirited Miss Victory, while Jenny, in her three years of cheerleading, has become a symbol of school spirit. Wherever these two go or whatever they do, they radiate spirit which ignites the often dormant pride within every loyal Tiger.

MOST ATHLETIC
Susie Smith
Walter Robidoux

The physical fitness program of the late President Kennedy is certainly exemplified by the condition and athletic ability of Sue Smith and Walter Robidoux. Sue is well known by her record in two years of Powderpuff as well as participation in GAA and the Girls' Track Team. Walt's prowess in three years of varsity football named him to the all-county team. In addition he specializes in the discus throw for the track team.

There are many at Cocoa High who admire the poise, grace and beauty of Marsha Carrier and the masculine appearance of Wayne Anthony. However, their attractiveness stems as much from a winning smile and a pleasing personality as from handsome features. Marsha was on the Homecoming Court and was also elected Beta Fall Princess. Wayne, who was especially talented in athletics, has always had a magnetic attraction for the ladies.

MOST ATTRACTIVE
Marsha Carrier
Wayne Anthony

MOST POPULAR
Sue Smith
Ralph Zuccarini

Ralph Zuccarini and Sue Smith, better known as "Zook" and "Little Sue," owe to their magnetic personalities a wide and varied circle of acquaintances. Sue, who participates in Anchor Club and Student Council, is constantly bubbling over with amazing quantities of vitality and charm. Ralph has a joke for every occasion and he manages to submerge the school in laughter with his antics.

FRIENDLIEST
Cheryl Lyndon
Jim Pitts

There is an old adage which says essentially that one must be a friend to have a friend. Perhaps this is the formula used so successfully by Cheryl Lyndon and Jim Pitts. They have made it their duty to spread cheerfulness among the students of CHS. Cheryl, as President of the Pep Club and a Homecoming Queen candidate for three years, is well known by her ready smile. Jim, who has served on the Student Council, has a word for everyone.

Every crowd always has a couple who have been blessed with an abundance of talent, such as Nancy Jones and Don Holcombe. As a proven entertainer, Nancy plays the piano, the guitar, and the xylophone, as well as sings and acts. She has participated in the Sr. Class Play, Li'l Abner, and Annie Get Your Gun. Don has gained fame for his vocal accomplishments, which included lead roles in the last two annual musicals.

Community

Life

. . . their comings and goings, their idiosyncrasies and conformities, their roles as merchants and consumers, students and teachers, providers and receivers. In the intricate interlacing of these things, one views the hustle and bustle of community life and is fascinated by the spectacle of a mass of humanity in the process of existence. From the cynosure of it all emerges a driving force which is the impatient press of progress as industry forges ahead into realms of new advancement. Yet, no matter what the feats of industry, people's needs and desires do not change basically and even the greatest things are broken down into the buying and selling of a dress, a dinner, a new car . . . and community life flows on in the harmony of productive human relationships.

Best Alive

Judy -
It has been a pleasure
knowing you since you came to Edgewood and through this year. Remember all the experiments and messes we made in Chemistry as lab partners. You're a wonderful and sweet girl. Stay that way and you will always have loads of fun. Stay smart and you will be a great success. Good luck in love, Yea!!! and life and with John. Will miss '66
you next year but hope your Junior and Senior years are a blast. Love ya!
